Dear Juniors:

You have taken many hard tests at school, I am sure, but soon you are going to take the hardest test of your life. No, it won't be a history or math test; it will be a test on the ten commandments. If you have grown up in a Christian home, you have most likely memorized the ten commandments as a child. But this test will not test so much your memory, but your actions.

Have you been living those ten commandments every day? Are you worshipping the living God or perhaps you have some hidden idols that you love and adore? Has your language been pure, free from slang and profanity? How have you been spending your Sabbath days? Have you used those precious hours to come closer to Jesus or have you been robbing Him by doing your own pleasure? How have you been treating your parents lately? Have you been honoring them by your words and actions?

Each day of your lives, God is giving us quizzes on the ten commandments. He is testing us to see if we are ready to enter heaven and live with the pure angels. If we have been getting high marks on our daily quizzes, when the final test comes, we will do well. But if we have been failing in the little tests, there will be trouble ahead. As we listen to world news, we know that soon the big test will come. The pope has made an appeal already telling people to get back to church. He said that they must get back to keeping Sunday, the first day of the week holy, if they want God's blessing.

We know that the Sunday law will soon be passed. Are you, dear junior and youth, ready for that time? When you are separated from your mother and father are you going to be able to stand for the Sabbath even if you have to go to jail? Today you must answer these questions. Today is the day to get ready for the big final test. Our lesson study for the next two quarters is on the ten commandments. We must know them not only by memory, but they must be written in our hearts.

As you daily obey God's commandments in the little things, when the final Sabbath test comes, you will be strong, full of courage and faith. Even though mother and father may not be near, you can be brave and stand up for Jesus like Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego. Get ready! Get ready! Get ready!

"Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest." Joshua 1:9.

Carried on Eagles' Wings

Mt. Sinai

Choices:

Have you ever heard of a trumpet so loud that it could shake a mountain?

Have you ever seen a mother eagle teaching her young ones to fly? When young eagles are nearly full grown, they weigh more than their parents. Being fat and flabby, they are not in the best condition to fly, so mother and father eagles start them on an exercise program. They stand on the edge of the nest and flap their wings, encouraging their young ones to copy them. When at last mother eagle feels they are strong, she attracts them with some food a short distance away. Suddenly the young ones try to fly, but soon become confused and begin to fall. The mother will swoop under her falling child and carry it on her back till it catches the air under its wings again. Then she will drop out from under the young eagle and gives it another chance. In this way young eagles slowly learn to fly.

The Israelites had been three months on the road traveling from slavery in Egypt to freedom. Their path took them through the Red Sea and now they were walking through the dry, sandy desert. Many a time they had seen a mother eagle carrying her young on her wings. So, as they were camping at the foot of Mount Sinai, God gave them a message through Moses in a language that they could understand. He said, “Ye have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how I bare you on eagles’ wings, and brought you unto myself.” Exodus 19:4. Our loving God wanted the Israelites to know that He cares for them as tenderly as a mother eagle cares for her young.

1. What did God tell His people through Moses? Exodus 19:3–6.

If ye _____ and keep my _____, then ye shall be a _____ unto me above all people . . . an holy _____.

- 2. What is a covenant? Look it up in the dictionary. What was Israel's part of the covenant? Exodus 19:8.

Covenant _____

Israel's Part _____

God's part of the covenant is given as the answer to question one above. A covenant is always conditional, which means it starts with the words, If you . . . and ends with the word then, listing all the blessings that will happen to us if we do what God says.

"Moses returned to the camp, and having summoned the elders of Israel, he repeated to them the divine message. Their answer was, 'All that the Lord hath spoken we will do.' Thus they entered into a solemn covenant with God, pledging themselves to accept Him as their ruler, by which they became, in a special sense, the subjects of His authority." —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 303.

- 3. Does the covenant (contract, or agreement) God made with the Israelites have anything to do with us? Isaiah 56:5.

"This covenant [Exodus 19:3–8] is of just as much force today as it was when the Lord made it with ancient Israel.

"This is the pledge that God's people are to make in these last days. Their acceptance with God depends on a faithful fulfillment of the terms of their agreement with Him. God includes in His covenant all who will obey Him." —The SDA Bible Commentary [E. G. White Comments], vol. 1, p. 1103.

Have you ever been to a parade where a very important person was passing by? Maybe it was the mayor of your city, a congressman or even the president or prime minister of your country? The Israelites were about to meet a very important person, someone much greater than the President of the United States. They had a meeting with their God, the Creator of heaven and earth. Most of them did not know much about God because they had lived among the heathen Egyptians for 400 years. Many of them had forgotten how holy and awesome the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob really is. Some of them had even worshiped heathen gods made out of stone, wood, and gold.

Since they had made a contract to obey God's voice, they pledged to accept Him as their Ruler and King. Now God was ready to meet with them and give them His holy law. Just think, the mighty God of creation would step down on

Getting Ready to Meet God

Mount Sinai and speak to His people! This was to be a grand and glorious meeting, but first the people must get ready to stand before a holy God.

1. What preparation did the people have to do for three days to meet with God? Exodus 19:10, 11.

“The people were required to refrain from worldly labor and care, and to possess devotional thoughts. God required them also to wash their clothes. He is no less particular now than He was then. He is a God of order, and requires His people now upon the earth to observe habits of strict cleanliness. And those who worship God with uncleanly garments and persons, do not come before Him in an acceptable manner. He is not pleased with their lack of reverence for Him, and He will not accept the service of filthy worshipers, for they insult their Maker. The Creator of the heavens and of the earth considered cleanliness of so much importance that He said, ‘And let them wash their clothes.’” —The Spirit of Prophecy, vol. 1, pp. 233, 234.

“During these intervening days all were to occupy the time in solemn preparation to appear before God. Their person and their clothing must be freed from impurity. And as Moses should point out their sins, they were to devote themselves to humiliation, fasting, and prayer, that their hearts might be cleansed from iniquity.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 304.

2. Why did Moses put up a fence in front of Mount Sinai? What would happen to any person, child, or animal who would just touch the fence? Exodus 19:12, 13.

What is the most wonderful, breathtaking, unforgettable experience you have ever had? I remember when I was your age, I went to see two large wall-size paintings of the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ. These paintings were so huge that they covered the wall of a large auditorium; they were 195 feet wide and 45 feet tall. The commentator shined the light on different Bible characters in the picture while the closing scenes of the crucifixion were dramatized. When Jesus spoke the words, “It is finished,” there was thunder and lightning and the sound of an earthquake. This scene was so impressive to me that I got a little glimpse of what it must have been like when Jesus died on the cross for me.

After the curtain closed and covered the crucifixion scene, another curtain opened and the painting of the resurrection of Jesus Christ came to view. In this painting, Jesus was kneeling in front of the tomb. By faith He was looking up into the heavens where thousands of redeemed were standing before Him. Suddenly a chorus began singing the “Hallelujah Chorus” from Handel’s Messiah. I will never forget this wonderful experience.

The Israelites saw something much more breathtaking than paintings of Jesus Christ’s crucifixion and resurrection. In the morning of the third day, the summit of Mount Sinai was covered with a thick cloud, which grew thicker and darker, coming down lower and lower until the whole mountain was wrapped in darkness and awful mystery. Something very solemn was about to happen.

1. Why was there thunder, lightning, smoke and an earthquake on Mount Sinai? Exodus 19:16 (first part), 17, 18.

2. How did the people and Moses feel as God stood on Mount Sinai? Exodus 19:16 (last part); Hebrews 12:21.

All the people tr__mbl__d. Moses said, “I exceedingly f__ __r and q__ __k__.”

“On the morning of the third day, as the eyes of all the people were turned toward the mount, its summit was covered with a thick cloud, which grew more black and dense, sweeping downward until the entire mountain was wrapped in darkness and awful mystery. Then a sound as of a trumpet was heard, summoning the people to meet with God; and Moses led them forth to the base of the mountain. From the thick darkness flashed vivid lightnings, while peals of thunder echoed and re-echoed among the surrounding heights. ‘And Mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire: and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.’ ‘The glory of the Lord was like devouring fire on the top of the mount’ in the sight of the assembled multitude. And ‘the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder.’ So terrible were the tokens of Jehovah’s presence that the hosts of Israel shook with fear, and fell upon their faces before the Lord. Even Moses exclaimed, ‘I exceedingly fear and quake.’ Hebrews 12:21.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 304.

Have you ever felt an earthquake? Perhaps you have been in a terrible thunderstorm. For most people earthquakes are scary natural disasters. Strong earthquakes that last a few minutes can be especially frightening. Have you ever wondered why God chose to appear to the Israelites in a fire with a mighty earthquake, thunder, lightning, and the sound of a loud trumpet? Remember when God appeared to the prophet Elijah on Mount Horeb in a cave? He did not come to him in a strong wind or earthquake or fire. Rather He came by speaking in a “still small voice.”

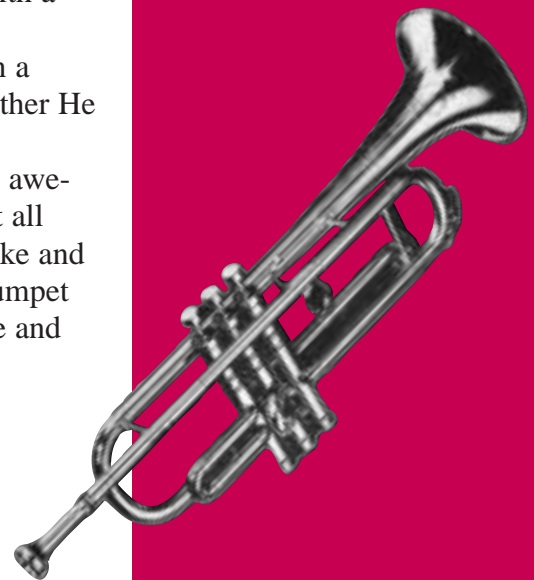

The Israelites had come from Egypt and had forgotten how holy and awesome their God is. They needed to know that He is all-powerful and that all nature is under His command. It was good for them to hear the earthquake and crashing thunder, to see the smoke and lightning, to listen to the long trumpet sound. All these loud wonders in nature would help them have reverence and fear for their God.

From the Inside Out

“When the law was spoken, the Lord, the Creator of heaven and earth, stood by the side of His Son, enshrouded in the fire and the smoke on the mount.” —The SDA Bible Commentary [E.G. White Comments], vol. 1, p. 1103.

“The divine Majesty descended in a cloud with a glorious retinue of angels, who appeared as flames of fire.” —The Spirit of Prophecy, vol. 1, pp. 234, 235.

2. What was the long sound of the trumpet? What happened when thunder, lightning and the loud trumpet sound stopped? Exodus 20:1, 2.

The trumpet sound was the voice of _____ “The angelic host that attended the divine Majesty summoned the people by a sound resembling that of a trumpet, which waxed [grew] louder and louder until the whole earth trembled.” —The Spirit of Prophecy, vol. 1, p. 234.

“And now the thunders ceased; the trumpet was no longer heard; the earth was still. There was a period of solemn silence, and then the voice of God was heard. Speaking out of the thick darkness that enshrouded Him, as He stood upon the mount, surrounded by a retinue of angels, the Lord made known His law.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 304.

Your house is sparkling clean for Sabbath. The kitchen is organized to perfection. You’ve helped Mother prepare special food for Sabbath. The living room is vacuumed and dusted. The bathroom tub, sinks, mirrors and floors are shining clean. Your room is just right, with closets and drawers in perfect order. The garage and yard are swept. All the shoes are perfectly lined up. Why, even the car is washed! As you walk through the house, you feel that everything looks perfect for God’s holy Sabbath day. Angels will love to come to your clean home. But wait a minute, you did all the outside cleaning for the Sabbath, what about the inside cleaning?

Just like the Israelites prepared for their meeting with God by washing their clothes, so we must prepare for our weekly meeting with Him on the Sabbath day. We may not see God or hear His voice in our churches, but He is there nonetheless.

1. As the Israelites had to wash their clothes before they met with God, what do we have to do before we can meet with Him each Sabbath day? Read the paragraphs below, then write one sentence about each noun below.

clothing

“When the Sabbath is thus remembered, the temporal will not be allowed to encroach upon the spiritual. No duty pertaining to the six working days will be left for the Sabbath. During the week our energies will not be so exhausted in temporal labor that on the day when the Lord rested and was refreshed, we shall be too weary to engage in His service.

“On Friday let the preparation for the Sabbath be completed. See that all the clothing is in readiness, and that all the cooking is done. Let the boots be blacked, and the baths be taken. It is possible to do this. If you make it a rule, you can do it. The Sabbath is not to be given to the repairing of garments, to the cooking of food, to pleasure seeking, or to any other worldly employment. Before the setting of the sun, let all secular work be laid aside, and all secular papers be put out of sight.” —Child Guidance, p. 528.

2. What is the “inside cleaning” we are to do before Sabbath begins?

Read James 5:16 and match the answers.

Taking baths, washing our clothes, cleaning our houses before Sabbath has to do with “outside” preparation for the Sabbath. But even more important than the “outside” cleaning is the “inside cleaning” of our heart. This is what God meant when He told the Israelites to “sanctify” themselves.

“There is another work that should receive attention on the preparation day. On this day all differences between brethren, whether in the family or in the church, should be put away. Let all bitterness and wrath and malice be expelled from the soul. In a humble spirit, ‘confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.’ James 5:16.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 356.

2. What do you remember about the Bible verse on “eagles’ wings”? Can you think of a specific time when God carried you and/or your family on “eagles’ wings”? _____
3. What is a covenant? Have you ever made a covenant (a contract, an agreement) with God? When? What did you promise Him?

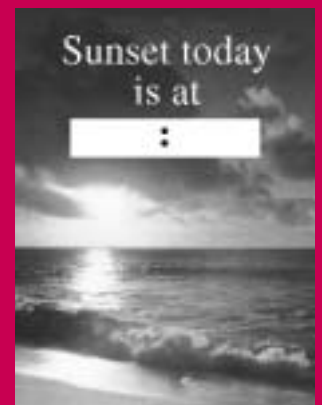

4. Which two parties made a covenant with each other in this lesson?

7. What does the silent gathering of the people teach us about our meeting with God at church, and morning and evening worship?

Have You Ever Been to Church?

Dear Young Friends, Have you ever been to church? I am going to tell you a story that will help you know whether you have been to church or not, if you are not sure.

I think I can hear some of you say, "Oh, I have been many times, I am sure." Even still, you might be mistaken.

"But I'm not," I hear a good many say. Well, I hope you are not, dear young friend. I hope you have been to church, and that more than once, and that God has seen you there. If you have been there, of course He has seen you there, and has been very glad; for it is His house, where He loves to meet His dear children.

It is a wonderful thing to be at church. Going to church gives us a look into heaven where God lives; for the church house is the gate to heaven. When we are in church, we have a chance to look into that wonderful place by faith. In our thoughts we can seem to see the angels round about the throne. We can catch the feelings of comfort that it would be to be there, the joy it would be to see Jesus, and be forever safe and happy and good.

I want to pass on to you a very interesting story about a young girl. She was skipping along between her father and mother as they were coming home from church. Her name was Mary Marsh. She felt like a very good girl, for she had sat quietly all through the long sermon, and sang out of Mother's hymn book, and bowed her head during prayer. Another reason that Mary was well satisfied is that she had on her new dress and her best hat. She looked at all the girls near her in church, and decided that not one of them wore any nicer clothes than hers.

Mary was thinking to herself, "I like to come to church when I have a new dress and a nice hat to wear and pretty shoes." She enjoyed herself, and also found Miss Jones' singing very funny because it sounded squeaky. Presently she spoke to her mother saying, "Mother, hasn't Miss Jones a funny voice when she sings? I almost laughed out loud when I heard that squeaky sound."

Mary's mother didn't answer her question, but said, "What were you thinking about, Mary, while you were singing so nicely from my hymn book?"

"Why?" Mary exclaimed in surprise.

"Were you thinking about dear Jesus as you sang, and how He wants to come into our hearts by His Spirit and make us love what is pure and bright?" asked Mrs. Marsh.

Mary thought for a minute. She hardly knew what to say at first. Then as she had always been a truthful little person, she said, with a funny half smile, "No, Mother; I was thinking that if I couldn't sing any better than Miss Jones, I wouldn't sing at all."

"And how about the prayer time, when you bowed your head; were you then trying to lift up your whole heart to God and ask Him to make you His obedient child?"

Mary's face got redder as her mother asked her this. "No," Mary said; "I opened my eyes and counted the tacks in the carpet. Do you think God was angry with me?"

"Oh no," answered her mother smiling. "He knows what a young girl you are; but I think He was sorry you were not at church."

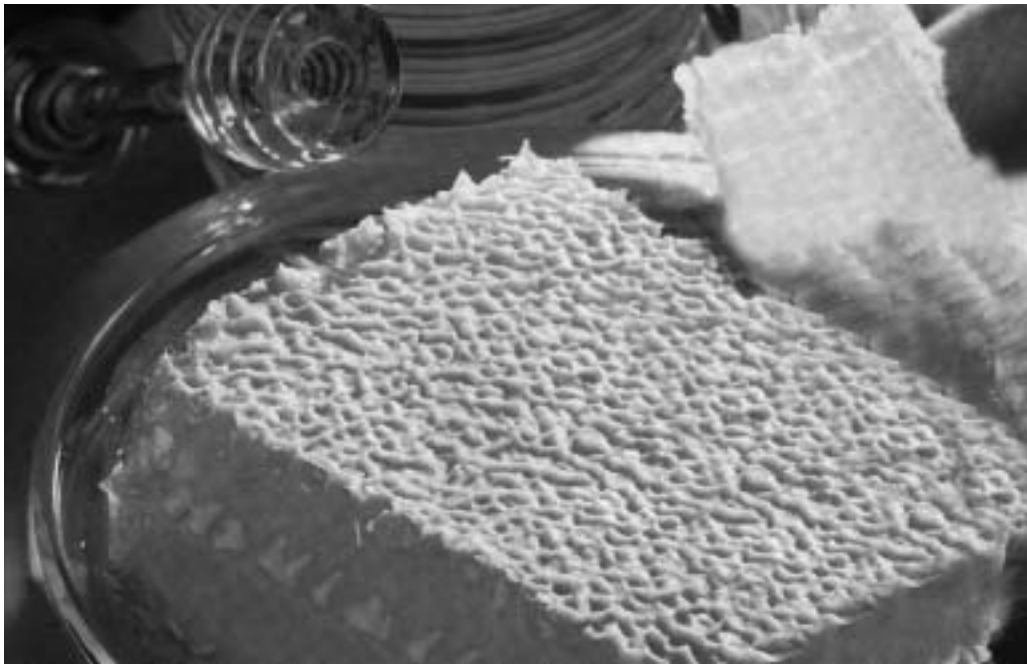

"Not at church!" cried Mary. "But Mom, I was sitting right beside you all the time."

"Yes, but the presence of our bodies is not enough. God sees our minds, and when we go to church and don't lift up our hearts to God, the place where we sit looks empty to Him."

Mary didn't say anything for awhile, then suddenly she said: "I suppose God saw Miss Jones at church today."

"Yes," said Mary's father, "and her squeaky voice probably made a beautiful sound by the time it got to God's ear."

When Mary got home she made up her mind that God would always see her in church, in both body and spirit. She knelt down beside her bed, and asked Him to forgive her for not being in church, and to help her know what it means to be present in church. Do you think she will find out next Sabbath? I really do! And she will be so happy! She will learn to talk with God at church like she does at home. ▼

Choices:

Mother asks you to organize your brother's closet, and to dust and vacuum his room. You are upset at your brother for looking at your stamp collection without permission. How can you clean your brother's room with love in your heart?

Can you picture a country that has no laws to protect its citizens? If you were living in such a country, your neighbor John would just come over to your house and take your bike without asking, and probably never return it. Travelers passing by your town would drop by your house, go to sleep in your bed and help themselves to food from your refrigerator without asking. If farmer Mert didn't like his wife, he would tell her to move away, then he would kidnap the mailman's wife and take her to himself. This is exactly how the antediluvians acted before God destroyed them by the great Flood. Aren't you thankful that we have laws in our countries to protect our property from being stolen, to protect our moms from being taken by wicked men and to keep us from being killed by evil people?

Do you know where the laws of your country came from? Although laws are signed by the king, prime minister, president or other system of government, they are based on God's perfect law—the ten commandments. You see, human beings, whether they be attorneys, judges, congressmen, senators or presidents would not be wise enough to come up with good laws to protect their country if they did not have God's holy law as an example.

1. Write down a few laws of your country, city or town. For each human law, write the commandment upon which it is based and the Bible reference.

Human Law	God's Law	Reference
Don't take another person's property.	Thou shalt not steal.	Exodus 20:15.

Thought Question:

Would you enjoy playing a game in which there were no rules?
Would your home be a happy place if Mother and Father made no rules?

2. What sort of country would your country be if there were not laws to protect you and other citizens?

As the Supreme Ruler of the universe, God has made laws to govern every part of His creation. He made laws for the smallest beetle, which is about one-hundredth of an inch long (0.25 mm) and could easily crawl through the eye of the smallest needle. Think of the great blue whale, which is up to 100 feet (30 meters) long and weighs more than 220 short tons (200 metric tons); it also is under God's laws. God has put every animal, bird, insect, fish, tree and flower, hill and river under fixed laws which cannot be changed. Heavenly bodies such as the moon, stars, sun and all the solar systems also obey specific laws that God has made for them. There is no "time out" from obeying God's law. Nature and animals obey God's laws constantly, never taking a day off.

Man, the masterpiece of God's creation was also placed under God's law. God has given us the laws of health, which we have been studying in My Body House I and II and the moral law of ten commandments. While everything in nature obeys natural law, man alone is the only intelligent being that can understand the requirements of the moral law. To us alone God has given a conscience which helps us to know the holy requirements of His law, and a mind that can love His law because it is holy, just, and good.

1. Name some of God's creatures and creations which are under laws.

2. What two sets of laws did God give to man? Exodus 20:1-17; Romans 12:1; 1 Corinthians 10:31. Which one is more important?

law. His law is written with His own finger upon every nerve, every muscle, every faculty, which has been entrusted to man. . . .

“It is as truly a sin to violate the laws of our being as it is to break the ten commandments. To do either is to break God’s laws. Those who transgress the law of God in their physical organism, will be inclined to violate the law of God spoken from Sinai.” —Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 17.

Brian, your next-door neighbor, went to the supermarket with his mother. He asked her to buy him five candy bars so he could share them with his friends at school. Mother told him, “I can’t buy you any candies today, for we are short on money.” Bryan didn’t care that Mom had no money. He was determined to get the candy anyway. While no one was looking, he slowly took the five candy bars and stuffed them in his pocket. The next day, he took them to school and proudly shared them with his friends.

As you can see, human laws are not perfect. Bryan was a thief, but because he was able to hide the candy bars from his mother and the cashier, the law did not condemn him as guilty. Another problem with human laws is that they only judge a person’s outward actions, such as stealing, killing, and committing adultery. God’s law judges our outward actions, and also our thoughts, motives, and desires of the heart. So, before Bryan stole the candy bar, he thought about stealing. Even if he had not stolen the candy, he would have been guilty according to God’s law.

1. What is the difference between God’s law and human laws? Psalm 19:7.

“The laws which God gave His ancient people were wiser, better, and more humane than those of the most civilized nations of the earth. The laws of the nations bear marks of the infirmities [weaknesses, faults] and passions of the unrenewed heart; but God’s law bears the stamp of the divine.” —Sons and Daughters of God, p. 39.

2. What are some of the sinful emotions that God’s law takes into account, which human laws often miss? Look them up in the paragraph below, then fill in the missing vowels.

A Positive Law

Word search

When your parents tell you, “You can’t go skating with the next-door neighbors for they are playing music that is not appropriate for a Christian to listen to,” do you think that it is a positive or negative command? If you are looking at God’s commandments as ten do’s and don’ts, then you will think Mom and Dad’s rules are too strict. But our heavenly Father wants us to look at His commandments as “Yes’s” and blessings. God gave us rules because He loves us and does not want us to be hurt. If you look at the ten commandments as happiness rules, you will love them, and you will love to obey Mom and Dad’s rules because they are based on God’s rules.

Some Christian juniors and even adults look at God as holding a stick and waiting to punish them every time they disobey His law. This is an unjust picture of God. When we sin and disobey God’s law we bring the punishment upon ourselves. Every sinful thought or action reacts upon us and works a change in our character, making it easier for us to sin again. By choosing to disobey God’s law, we separate ourselves from Him.

1. What are some positive qualities of God’s law? Psalm 19:7–10. Read the verses, then find the eight qualities in the word search below.

1. sweet
2. perfect
3. holy
4. just
5. good

Don't Break the Mirror

Jeremy was sitting at the table finishing his breakfast when his mother said, "Did you look in the mirror this morning? There is a big black smear on your face and your hair looks like tangled up chicken feathers." Jeremy looked in the mirror and saw that his Mother was right. By the time he picked up his violin and music books, he had forgotten about how he looked. Mother was already in the car waiting to take him to violin lessons. When he arrived for his music lesson, his teacher remarked, "Jeremy, your face and hair tell me that you haven't looked in the mirror this morning." That moment he promised himself, "I will always be sure to wash my face and comb my hair first thing in the morning."

Besides looking at the mirror each morning when you wake up, make sure you look at the mirror of God's law, for it will show you where your character needs cleaning up. As you read God's law, you may see some spots of selfishness, smudges of laziness, and even a few dirty marks of pride. God's law cannot clean the dirty sin spots from your character. The law only shows us what sin is. Then we go to God and ask Him to forgive us and help us get cleaned up.

1. Why does the Bible call the law a mirror? James 1:23, 24.

2. What do some juniors and adults try to do when the mirror of God's law shows them dirty sin spots on their characters? Romans 2:23. Fill in the missing vowels.

"And when [the sinner] sees himself condemned by that great standard of righteousness, his next move must be to repent of his sins, and seek forgiveness through Christ. Failing to do this, many try to break the mirror which reveals their defects, to make void the law which points out the blemishes in their life and character." —Selected Messages, vol. 1, p. 219.

What is your favorite dessert? Is it homemade oatmeal cookies or perhaps apple pie? Some children like baklava. At home we make baklava with walnuts and paper-thin whole wheat dough called phyllo. After we put down several layers of phyllo dough, we spread shredded walnuts on top, repeating this three or four times. We cut the top layer of phyllo into diamond shapes and bake it for one hour. When we take the baklava out of the oven it looks dry and brittle. If you were to eat it, it would taste like dry dough and toasted, unsweetened walnuts. After eating a piece of this dry, unsweetened baklava, you would probably say, "This is the most awful dessert I ever tried." But after we pour honey syrup on the pastry and let it sit overnight, it's a delicious, sweet nutty dessert.

King David tells us that God's law is sweeter than honey and the honeycomb. Would you like to know how you can love the commandments more than your favorite dessert? When you first love Jesus with all your heart, then you will also love His holy law. Gladly you will obey it because you want to please Him. But if you try to obey the commandments in your own power without Jesus, it will be as tasteless like the dry baklava without the honey syrup. What the honey syrup is to desserts, Jesus is to the law. He is the One who makes it sweet and easy for us to obey.

1. What makes obeying the law sweet or bitter to us? John 14:15.

2. How can we ask help from God to love His law? Psalm 119:18.

“And as the Lord heard and answered David, so He will hear and answer us, making our hearts full of gladness and rejoicing.” —That I May Know Him, p. 196.

3. If you can find phyllo dough, with your mother’s help, make baklava for Sabbath. Taste it before adding the honey syrup and then after. Notice the difference. Then remember the connection between the baklava and the law. Find the recipe on p. 92.

Choices:

Jason is a Sabbathkeeper, but he is also an idol worshiper. How is this possible?

People love to worship! In many countries, juniors, youth and adults worship sports stars and movie stars. Many juniors and youth collect cards of their favorite sports fans, showing them love and adoration. In other places in the world, people may be worshipping idols and images made out of wood and stone. But praise God that Christians don't have to worship things or human beings who are sinful like themselves. Our heavenly Father created us to enjoy worshipping Him. As a result of sin, the enemy has turned worship away from God to things and people. When God gave the ten commandments to the Israelites, He knew that people would be tempted to worship false gods. This is why in the first command He says, “Thou shalt have no other gods before me.” Exodus 20:3.

1. Why did God tell the Israelites and us to worship Him? Exodus 20:1–3.

The Israelites owed to God their freedom and their lives. He gave them food, water and protection during their travels in the wilderness. We are also indebted to God for our freedom. By birth, we are captives of Satan, but God sent His Son to free us from the enemy's power.

2. Why is God the only One who deserves our worship? Psalm 100:3; Revelation 4:11. Fill in the missing words.

a. We are his _____.

- b. He _____ us and not we ourselves.
 c. He is _____ to receive glory and honor and power because he _____ all things.

“The duty to worship God is based upon the fact that He is the Creator and that to Him all other beings owe their existence. And wherever, in the Bible, His claim to reverence and worship, above the gods of the heathen, is presented, there is cited the evidence of His creative power. ‘All the gods of the nations are idols: but the Lord made the heavens.’ Psalm 96:5. ‘To whom then will ye liken Me, or shall I be equal? saith the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things.’ ‘Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God Himself that formed the earth and made it: . . . I am the Lord; and there is none else.’ Isaiah 40:25, 26; 45:18. Says the psalmist: ‘Know ye that the Lord He is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves.’ ‘O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our Maker.’ Psalms 100:3; 95:6. And the holy beings who worship God in heaven state, as the reason why their homage is due to Him: ‘Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power: for Thou hast created all things.’ Revelation 4:11.” —The Great Controversy, pp. 436, 437.

False Gods

Would you ever worship a two-inch long tooth? You may laugh and say, “That is silly,” but 400 million Buddhists worship a tooth as one of the most sacred objects on earth. The tooth is supposed to have been reclaimed from Buddha’s funeral pyre in 543 B.C. and was brought to Ceylon 800 years later. Today the tooth sets upon a golden lotus in the temple of the tooth in Kandy, Ceylon. It is surrounded by rubies and tons of flowers. Each year a hundred thousand faithful Buddhists come from many countries to look at the “sacred tooth.” They bring gifts of gold, silver and jewels to place within the temple.

Aren’t you thankful that our loving God has forbidden us to worship such silly objects as a tooth? Our God is a living God who created heaven and earth. He has no beginning and no end. How sad that millions of people in the world are ignorantly worshipping wood and stone gods.

Aren't you thankful that God has called you out of darkness into His marvelous light?

Jonathan was talking to his sister Carie about keeping the commandments. He said, "Oh, the first commandment is easy for us to keep, for it applies only to people who worship idols and images. Is Jonathan right? Do you agree with him?"

As a Seventh-day Adventist, you would never think of bowing down to an image or setting up idols in your house, yet what about the idols in your heart? An idol does not have to be something you bow down and worship. It can be a person, thing, or even a thought that we love more than God. A modern idol can be anything like: clothes, stomach, computers, bicycles, even toys like Lego® and Mickey Mouse®. If we waste too much of our time and energy on making ourselves handsome or beautiful, we are also idol worshipers. Jesus will not share our heart with other things we love more than Him. This is why He gave us the first commandments.

Is there anything in your life that takes so much time and interest that you find reading the Bible, studying your lesson and going to church boring? Is there something that you love more than thinking about Jesus? As you study today's lesson, ask Jesus, "Please show me if there is an idol that I may be secretly worshipping."

1. What is an idol? How does the Bible warn us against idol worship?
 1 John 2:15–17.

"Anything that separates our affections [love] from God and lessens our interest in eternal things is an idol." —That I May Know Him, p. 322.

"Whatever we cherish that tends to lessen our love for God or to interfere with the service due Him, of that do we make a god." —Patriarchs and Prophets, “Mammon is the idol of many. The love of money, the desire for wealth, is the golden chain that binds them to Satan. Reputation and worldly honor are worshiped by another class. The life of selfish ease and freedom from responsibility is the idol of others. But these slavish bands must be broken. We cannot be half the Lord's and half the world's. We are not God's children unless we are such entirely.” —Steps to Christ, p. 44.

“Their objectionable hereditary traits of character they choose to retain as idols.” —That I May Know Him, p. 247.

How would you like to worship a god that speaks bad words and gets into fights? What about a god that steals and even kills? Many heathen gods have such terrible character qualities. A missionary tells of a woman in India who was holding a weak, whining baby in her arms. Next to her side was standing a beautiful, healthy child. The missionary saw her walking to the banks of the Ganges River. She threw her healthy child to the crocodiles as an offering to her god. Then she turned toward home still holding the sickly baby in her arms. “Why did you throw your healthy child into the river?” the missionary asked. “O sir, we always give our gods the best!” she said proudly.

People who worship a god that kills or curses cannot become any better than the god they serve. On Monday we learned that people who do not want to worship the living God will eventually do all sorts of evil actions. On the other hand, those who do worship our holy, perfect, loving, merciful, and kind God will become like Him through their worship.

1. What will happen to people who worship visible idols made out of wood or stone, or idols such as clothes, money and their bellies? Psalm 115:8.

“It is a law of the human mind that by beholding we become changed. Man will rise no higher than his conceptions of truth, purity, and holiness. If the mind is never exalted above the level of humanity, if it is not uplifted by faith to contemplate infinite wisdom and love, the man will be constantly sinking lower and lower. The worshipers of false gods clothed their deities with human attributes and passions, and thus their standard of character was degraded to

2. What wonderful things will happen to us as we worship God, the Creator of heaven and earth? Read 2 Corinthians 3:18 and paragraphs below. Then answer the true and false questions.

- a. By looking at God’s perfectly holy character every day, we will become like Him. True or False

- c. The Holy Spirit will help to change us from our sinful ways to God’s perfect ways. True or False

“Look to Christ, behold the attractive loveliness of His character, and by beholding you will become changed into His likeness. The mist that intervenes between Christ and the soul will be rolled back as we by faith look past the hellish shadow of Satan and see God’s glory in His law, and the righteousness of Christ.”—The SDA Bible Commentary [E.G. White Comments], vol. 6, p. 1097.

“The character of the one who thus beholds Christ is so like His, that one looking at him sees Christ’s own character shining out as from a mirror. Imperceptibly to ourselves we are changed day by day from our own ways and will into the ways and will of Christ, into the loveliness of His character.” —Ibid.

The apostle John was looking down to the end of time. He saw millions of people choosing to worship the beast and his image while only a little company was worshiping the God who made heaven and earth.

The little choices we make today, whether to obey Mom and Dad, whether to study our Bible or not, whether to speak kindly or impatiently, will all affect our final choice. Today, while most people are worshiping other gods, God is calling you and me to worship Him in every little detail of our lives. If we worship God every day in the little things, when the big test comes and we will be commanded to worship the beast and his image, we will say, “No.” But if we give in here a little and there a little now, doing what is easy and what feels good, we will at last worship the beast and his image.

1. What good advice does John give us about idols? 1 John 3:1.

2. What will we be able to do when we give up all of our idols? Isaiah 60:1.

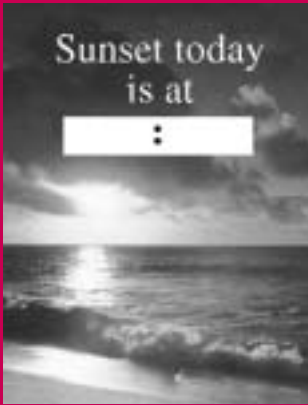

“Night after night, scenes have been presented to me of little companies pleading with God. He would show them some idol they had been cherishing. Some would give this up, and some would not. But the light of heaven shone from the faces of those who would put away their idol. Then other idols would be shown to them, and again some would put these away. But the light of heaven

False Worship

On the way home from church, Ted and Diane told their parents about the missionary who had spoken to their Sabbath school department. “He told us that the people he works with worship a false god,” said Ted. “They run around and around their temple, and each time around they drop a piece of wood into a box. By the time they finish, they’re dead tired, but happy. They believe they have done a great thing for their god.

“Isn’t that silly?” asked Diane. “That’s not worship at all! I’m glad we know and worship the true God every time we go to church. Right, Dad?”

“Maybe not,” replied their father. He went on to explain. “While the pastor was preaching, Ted, I caught you and Billy writing notes, didn’t I? Do you think you can worship the Lord while writing notes?” Ted shook his head slowly. “As for me, I’ll have to confess that at one point, I was thinking about a problem at work instead of listening to the sermon,” added Dad.

“I’m sometimes guilty too,” confessed Diane. “Last Sunday I whispered to Laurie during our prayer time. After class, Mrs. Parker talked to me about it, and I was really embarrassed. Did she tell you about it, too?”

Mother shook her head. “No, but now I guess it’s my turn,” she said. “The Bible says we’re to sing with the spirit and with understanding. In other words, we should sing with real praise to the Lord, thinking about the words. Sometimes I catch myself thinking about something else while singing the old familiar hymns.”

“We could all improve in our worship, couldn’t we?” asked Dad. “Let’s ask Jesus for the will and determination to worship Him each time we come into His presence. Then we can truly say that we worship Him. And if we don’t, I can’t see that we’re much better than the heathen in their rituals and ceremonies. In fact, we’re worse, because we know better.” All the family nodded

Tumult, Frenzy,

Choices:

If you were the pastor of your local church, and the members came to you one day saying, “Make us an image of Jesus for us to worship,” what would you do?

Pontius, a young son of a Roman senator, was walking on a street in Rome when he heard many voices singing Psalm 115. He was impressed by the words, “But our God is in the heavens: He hath done whatsoever He hath pleased. Their idols are silver and gold, the work of men’s hands. They have mouths, but they speak not: eyes have they, but they see not: They have ears, but they hear not: noses have they, but they smell not: They have hands, but they handle not: feet have they, but they walk not: neither speak they through their throat.”

Going to the house from where the chanting was coming, he knocked at the door. The doorkeeper looked out and reported to the preacher, “It is only a little fellow knocking at the door.” “Well, open and let him in, for of such is the kingdom of heaven,” said the preacher. Eagerly the young boy told the preacher, “Sir, teach me the beautiful song I heard you sing. It is all so true. You sang that idols have feet and walk not, they have ears and cannot hear, they have eyes but cannot see. I know that they cannot move and that people are afraid of them being blown over by the wind or stolen. I myself have seen how they fasten them into their pedestals with melted lead.” The preacher was amazed about the boy’s understanding. He saw that the Holy Spirit was giving him light that idols are worthless. He asked him, “My boy, what do your parents think about idols?” Learning that they were pagans, he told the boy, “God in His own good time may give them understanding as He gave to you.” When the boy came home, he was so happy to share what he had learned about idols and about the living God from the preacher. He took his father to see the preacher. Father and son accepted Jesus as their Saviour and were baptized together. This Christian boy became a hero for Christ and died a martyr in 257 A.D.

1. What does the second commandment say? Exodus 20:4–6. Why did God give us the first and second commandments? Underline the answer.

“The first and second commandments spoken by Jehovah are precepts against idolatry; for idolatry, if practiced, would lead men to great lengths in sin and rebellion, and result in the offering of human sacrifices. God would guard against the least approach to such abominations.” —The Spirit of Prophecy, vol. 3, p. 236.

Pontius, the young boy in yesterday’s story, was wiser than many so-called Christian priests, preachers and adults. By just hearing the words of Scripture about why we should not worship idols, he believed. In many countries around the world, people are worshipping animals, birds, fish, the sun, the moon or stars made out of gold, silver or stone. Some of these people are very sincere. They do not know any better because they don’t have the Bible.

What is really amazing, however, is that many so-called Christian churches encourage their members to bow down and worship what they call “holy objects.” Some of them bow down and worship carved images of Jesus, Mary (His mother), and the disciples whom they call “saints.”

The first commandment tells us that God is to be supreme in our worship. No other gods such as money, appetite, toys, clothes or amusements must come before Him in our esteem. The second commandment teaches us not to use any object made out of wood, stone, gold or silver as “aids” to worship God. If we do, we will quickly forget how holy and great God truly is, and will soon identify Him with the pictures and idols we worship.

1. What does the second commandment forbid? Exodus 20:4, 5 (first part).

Thou shalt not _____ unto thee any _____.
 Thou shalt not _____ thyself to them nor _____ them.

2. Cynthia goes to a church where they pray to dead saints. What is wrong with this? 1 Timothy 2:5; Hebrews 4:14–16.

“The so-called intercession of the saints is the greatest falsehood that can be invented. Priests and rulers have no right to interpose between Christ and the souls for whom He has died, as though invested with the Saviour’s attributes, and able to pardon transgression and sin. They themselves are sinners. They are only human. One day they will see that their deceptive doctrines have led to crimes of every stripe and type, to adultery, robbery, falsehood. They are responsible for many terrible wrongs which men have perpetrated upon their fellow men.” —The SDA Bible Commentary [E.G. White Comments], vol. 7, p. 913.

“[John 17:19–21, 24–26 quoted.] Here we see the great Intercessor presenting His petition to His Father. No middle man comes between the sinner and Christ. No dead prophet, no buried saint is seen. Christ Himself is our Advocate.” — Ibid., p. 914.

The Israelites had just heard Jehovah speak the ten commandments from the smoking Mount Sinai. Just a few weeks ago, they had heard His thundering, majestic voice, but how soon had they forgotten His glory and holiness! Moses had ascended into the mountain to talk with God. As the Israelites waited eagerly for his return, they could see thick darkness resting on the mountain peak. Day after day, week after week passed, but still no Moses. The “mixed multitude” started to murmur against their leader.

In Egypt they had worshiped the ox and calf as symbols of their gods. And now they thought that Moses was not coming back, so they wanted some image to represent God. A big crowd of them rushed to Aaron’s tent, demanding loudly, “Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.” What would Aaron do— would he make a golden image for them?

1. Through which miracles did God want to establish the faith of the Israelites in Him as their invisible, all-powerful God? Underline the answer. How did He show them His visible presence? Exodus 20:21.

“The mighty miracles in Egypt and at the Red Sea were designed to establish faith in Him as the invisible, all-powerful Helper of Israel, the only true God. And the desire for some visible manifestation of His presence had been granted in the pillar of cloud and of fire that guided their hosts, and in the revealing of His glory upon Mount Sinai.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 316.

2. Shortly after hearing the law on Mount Sinai, how did the Israelites break the second commandment? What did they do? Exodus 32:1–6.

“With the cloud of the Presence still before them, they turned back in their hearts to the idolatry of Egypt, and represented the glory of the invisible God by the similitude of an ox!” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 316.

3. Based on the above verses, what kind of man was Aaron? Write your own thoughts and underline the answer.

“Aaron feared for his own safety; and instead of nobly standing up for the honor of God, he yielded to the demands of the multitude. His first act was to direct that the golden earrings be collected from all the people and brought to him, hoping that pride would lead them to refuse such a sacrifice. But they willingly yielded up their ornaments; and from these he made a molten calf, in imitation of the gods of Egypt. The people proclaimed, ‘These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.’ And Aaron basely permitted this insult to Jehovah. He did more. Seeing with what satisfaction the golden god was received, he built an altar before it, and made proclamation, ‘Tomorrow is a feast to the Lord.’ The announcement was heralded by trumpeters from company to company throughout the camp. ‘And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.’ Under the pretense of holding ‘a feast to the Lord,’ they gave themselves up to gluttony and licentious reveling.” —Ibid., p. 317.

A Jealous God

You’ve most probably attended at least one wedding in your lifetime. Did you hear the questions the preacher asked the bride and groom, and the answers they gave? When your father married your mother, the preacher asked him, “Do you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife? Do you solemnly promise, before God and these witnesses, that you will love, honor, and cherish her; and that, forsaking all others for her alone, you will faithfully perform to her all the duties which a husband owes to a wife, so long as you both shall live?” After your father said, “I do” he asked the same question of your mother and she also said, “I do.”

On their wedding day, your parents promised to each other and to God that they would remain faithful as long as they lived. That meant they would love each other only, and not another man or woman. God compares our relationship to Him to a marriage. We are His bride and He is our husband. When we give our hearts to Jesus, we promise to love and be faithful to Him only, and not to our old master—Satan. It hurts our heavenly Father when we worship Satan or other gods. In the second commandment God says, “I am a jealous God,” meaning “I love you so much that I gave my Son to die for you. When you worship idols, you betray Me and become an adulterer or adulteress.” Your father loves your mother so much that in his heart he has no room for any other woman. In the same way, God wants us to love Him so much that we have no room in our heart for any other god besides Him.

1. How did God show His jealousy toward the Israelites after they made the golden calf? Exodus 32:7–10.

2. What did Moses do to show the people that the golden calf they worshiped was worthless? Exodus 32:20.

Thought Question:

In an emergency, do you act like Moses or Aaron? Are you a “people pleaser” or a “God pleaser”?

Do you think that the ten commandments are a bunch of “do’s and don’ts?” We want you to understand that the ten commandments are God’s happiness rules. If you obey them, you will be wise, prosperous and happy. Had the Israelites obeyed the ten commandments, today Israel would be the most powerful country in the world. The Jews would not be a scattered people as they are today. Instead, they would have been the richest, the wisest, healthiest, and happiest people on earth. Since they did not obey God’s law, God is looking for young people today who will take their place. Do you want to be the wisest, healthiest, happiest and richest juniors and youth in the world? Obey the commandments, word for word. Obey them not because someone is forcing you, but because you want to, and because you love God.

1. What blessing does God promise to us if we obey the second commandment? What will happen if we disobey it?

Blessings of Obedience
Exodus 20:6

Consequences of Disobedience
Exodus 20:5

The children will not be punished for their parents’ sins, unless they participate in their sins. But usually children follow in the steps of their parents. By inheritance and example the sons take part in their father’s sins. Wrong habits, spoiled appetites, bad morals and sickness are passed on from father to son to the third and fourth generation. This fearful truth should have a solemn power to stop men from following the course of sin. (Adapted from Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 306.)

Are You a True Worshiper?

Do you know how to worship God the right way? “Of course,” some of you may say, “I’ve been going to church since I was a little baby. I am a third generation Seventh-day Adventist.” In the time of Christ, the Jews also felt that way. They had been worshiping God from the time of Abraham, for 42 generations. How proud they were to be the chosen nation! O how they bragged about the sacred temple in Jerusalem which they had built according to God’s instructions! But the sad thing was that in spite of such a great heritage, they still did not know how to worship God.

- 1. When the Samaritan woman asked Jesus which was the right place to worship, Jerusalem or Mount Gerazim, what did Jesus answer her? John 4:19–21.

There was a long-time argument between the Jews and the Samaritans about where to worship God. While the Jews said that the right place to worship was Jerusalem, the Samaritans claimed that Mount Gerazim was the right place. The Samaritans had built a temple there in the time of Ezra, when the Jews refused to let them take part in the rebuilding of the temple at Jerusalem.

- 2. Jesus told the woman that the most important thing is not where you worship, but how you worship. Write what Jesus told her about true worshipers. John 4:23, 24. What do these words mean? Underline the answer.

“[Jesus] desired to lift the thoughts of His hearer [the Samaritan] above matters of form and ceremony, and questions of controversy. ‘The hour cometh,’ He said, ‘and now is, when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship Him. God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth.’ ”
—The Desire of Ages, p. 189.

Thought Question:

Are you a true worshiper? Do you worship God because of habit? Do you go to church because your parents, grandparents and great-grandparents were Seventh-day Adventists? Do you go to church because you have a nice, beautiful church or because you love God?

It does not matter how grand and beautiful, or humble and lowly is the place where we go to worship God. It does not matter if we are a fifth-generation Seventh-day Adventist or only a one-month-old Adventist. What matters to God is, “Are we worshiping Him because we truly love Him? Are we joyfully obeying all His requirements?” This is true worship, and we can only have it as the Holy Spirit works in our hearts.

A Holy Name

Key Words:

Reverence, Blasphemy, Profanity, Fear of God, Solemn, Hypocrite, Perjury, Diverting.

Lesson Helps:

Exodus 20:7; Isaiah 6:1–5; Messages to Young People, pp. 265–267.

Choices:

If someone asks you to describe your father in one word, what would you say? What one word do the angels use to describe God?

One day the prophet Isaiah was standing under the veranda of the temple, when suddenly the gate and the inner curtain lifted up. Shocked, the prophet found himself looking inside the most holy place. There before him in vision was Jehovah sitting on His high throne. On each side of the throne were seraphim. Their faces were covered as they praised and worshiped their King. Solemnly they chanted, "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory." Their voices were so loud that the posts, pillars and the gate were shaking while the whole temple was filled with smoke.

As Isaiah saw God's holiness and glory, he was afraid. Feeling unworthy to stand before a holy and majestic God, he cried in desperation, "Woe is me! For I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts." Isaiah 6:5.

This week, we will study the most important name in the universe—God's name. Heavenly angels call Him holy. How sad it is that many children, juniors, youth and even adults forget about His holiness. They think thoughts, speak words, and do things that disrespect His holy name.

1. How do the seraphim show respect for God? Isaiah 6:2, 3.

2. What two adjectives describe the name of God our Father? Psalm 111:9. Can we call a minister "Reverend?"

_____ and _____ is His name.

“All should meditate upon [God’s] majesty, His purity and holiness, that the heart may be impressed with a sense of His exalted character; and His holy name should be uttered with reverence and solemnity.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 307.

“According to the teaching of the Scriptures, it dishonors God to address ministers as “reverend.” No mortal has any right to attach this to his own name, or to the name of any other human being. It belongs only to God, to distinguish Him from every other being. . . . ‘Holy and reverend is his name.’ We dishonor God when we use this word where it does not belong.” —Sons and Daughters of God, p. 58.

3. Recite the third commandment by memory, and write it down. Exodus 20:7.

Thou shalt not _____

A Christian young lady was working in a doctor’s office. Many of the employees would joke around and use swear words when she was not around. But as soon as she walked through the door, they would stop speaking bad language and would talk respectfully to each other. Most Seventh-day Adventists are well known for their pure speech. The third commandment forbids us to swear and use bad language. It also teaches us not to use the name of God in a light and careless manner, without thinking what it really means. While we may not be guilty of saying bad words or swearing by the name of God, we may be transgressing the third commandment in many other ways. Have you heard people say, “Goodness gracious” or “Mercy?” People who use these words, transgress the third commandment, because they speak carelessly about the attributes of God’s character and so dishonor Him.

1. There are many slang words in every language which take the name of the Lord in vain and border on profanity. Match the meaning of the words with the words on the left. You may need to use a dictionary.

“Swearing, and all words spoken in the form of an oath, are dishonoring to God. The Lord sees, the Lord hears, and He will not hold the transgressor guiltless. He will not be mocked. Those who take the name of the Lord in vain will find it a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.” —My Life Today, p. 282.

“Burning words of passion should never be spoken, for in the sight of God and holy angels, they are as a species of swearing.” —Sons and Daughters of God, p. 58.

3. Your neighbor often says “O my God!” and “Good heavens!” What is wrong with saying these words?

When you were a little boy or girl, perhaps you learned the Lord’s Prayer. This simple prayer that Jesus gave us begins with, “Our Father which art in heaven.” When you say these words, you are calling the Almighty, holy God who created the heavens and the earth, your Father. In prayer, we enter into His presence. We must come before Him with holy awe. The angels veil their faces when they come before Him; how much more should we, finite, sinful beings, come before Him with reverence and awe.

Some Christians show irreverence to God during prayer and singing. Let us find out how that happens and what we can do to avoid it.

1. How can we disrespect God’s holy name during prayer and church service? Ecclesiastes 5:1, 2.

“Some think it a mark of humility to pray to God in a common manner, as if talking with a human being. They profane His name by needlessly and irreverently mingling with their prayers the words, ‘God Almighty’—awful, sacred words, which should never pass the lips except in subdued tones and with a feeling of awe.” —Gospel Workers, p. 176.

“Reverence should be shown also for the name of God. Never should that name be spoken lightly or thoughtlessly. Even in prayer its frequent or needless repetition should be avoided. . . .

“What faint views some have of the holiness of God, and how much they take His holy and reverend name in vain, without realizing that it is God, the great and terrible God, of whom they are speaking. While praying, many use careless and irreverent expressions, which grieve the tender Spirit of the Lord and cause their petitions to be shut out of heaven.” —My Life Today, p. 282.

Reverence During Song and Prayer

1. How does God want us to sing and pray? 1 Corinthians 14:15; Ephesians 5:19. What does that mean?

I will pray with the _____, with _____ also.

I will sing with the _____, and I will sing with the _____ also.

Speaking to yourselves in _____ and _____ and _____ _____ and making _____ in your heart to the Lord.

Many of the modern Christian songs repeat the name of God and Jesus too many times in the song. Do you know what is wrong with that? When you say someone's name too many times, it becomes common like any other name. Also we can dishonor God's name by not thinking about the meaning of the words we are singing or by laughing during the song.

"All should sing with the spirit and with the understanding also. God is not pleased with jargon and discord. Right is always more pleasing to Him than wrong. And the nearer the people of God can approach to correct, harmonious singing, the more is He glorified, the church benefited, and unbelievers favorably affected." —Testimonies, vol. 1, p. 146.

2. What will happen to Christians who do not obey the words of God's law and honor God's glorious and fearful name? Read the verses and unscramble the verses to find the answers. Deuteronomy 28:59–63.

God will send on them pl __ g __ __s, s __ ckn __ss __ s.

They will be few in n __ mb __ r.

Thought Question

When you sing a song, do you think about the words that you are singing? Are you reverent and happy in your singing?

Do you know what is one of the strongest temptations for children and young people in our day? They are tempted to be irreverent toward God. Sister White was alarmed when she saw how the children and youth of Christian parents are irreverent in church. While the Sabbath school teacher or minister was teaching or preaching, some were reading, others were whispering and laughing. She said, "Their eyes are sinning by diverting the attention of those around them. This habit, if allowed to remain unchecked, will grow and influence others.

"Children and youth should never feel that it is something to be proud of to be indifferent and careless in meetings where God is worshiped. God sees every irreverent thought or action, and it is registered in the books of heaven. He says, 'I know thy works.' Nothing is hid from His all-searching eye. . . .

"If those who commit this fault could see the angels of God looking upon them and marking their doings, they would be filled with shame and abhorrence [hate] of themselves." —Messages to Young People, pp. 265, 266.

Have you ever gone to court and see a witness taking an oath? An oath is a pledge or promise. The judicial oath is used in the court of law. A witness who takes an oath in court swears before the judge that all his words will be true. Often the person lays one hand upon the Bible while he takes an oath, promising before God that what he is saying is the truth.

What happens if a person makes an oath in court and then lies while under the oath? According to civil law, he is guilty of perjury, which is a crime punishable by a fine or jail sentence.

1. What does the Bible say about taking oaths? Is it all right for Christians to swear by God’s name? Deuteronomy 6:13.

“But if there is anyone who can consistently testify under oath, it is the Christian. He lives constantly as in the presence of God, knowing that every thought is open to the eyes of Him with whom we have to do; and when required to do so in a lawful manner, it is right for him to appeal to God as a witness that what he says is the truth, and nothing but the truth.” —Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing, p. 67.

did not, however, forbid the use of the judicial oath, in which God is solemnly called to witness that what is said is truth and nothing but the truth. 3. Which prophets swore by the Lord that their words were true? Daniel 12:7; Revelation 10:5, 6.

Crystal sat down in the youth Sabbath school class ready to listen to the new lesson. As the teacher asked the first question, several answers were given but he was still looking for more. Crystal raised her hand and began giving the answer. Before she was finished, several of her classmates began laughing loudly. Surprised at their irreverence, and a little hurt as well, she finished answering the question even though no one paid any attention.

The class proceeded with many distractions along the way. Laughing and making fun of others seemed to be the theme of this Sabbath school. Attempting several times to stop the interruptions, the teacher was drowned out by the students.

Once again Crystal tried to participate in the lesson when again she was rudely interrupted with laughter and thoughtless remarks. This true story is a sad description of a Sabbath school who did not honor God's name. It is our prayer that your Sabbath school never acts this way, and that by God's grace you will be among those who fear and honor God's name.

1. What has God promised to those who fear [honor and respect] His name? Malachi 3:16; 4:2.

The Master Artist's Autograph

Lesson Helps:
 Exodus 20:8–11; 31:13–17;
Testimonies, vol. 6, pp.
 349–368.

Key Words:
 Signpost, Autograph.

Choices:

How many holidays do we need each year to be healthy, happy, and rested?

Have you ever seen an artist painting a picture? He works diligently for weeks and months on just one painting. After spending hundreds of hours on his masterpiece, he carefully examines the finished product. At last, he is ready to sign his autograph on the painting. Without the artist's signature, the painting has very little value. It is the name of the artist that makes the painting valuable.

Almost 6,000 years ago, Jehovah, the great Master Artist had just finished His creating work. In just six days, He had laid the foundations of the earth. He had dressed the whole world with beauty and had filled it with mountains and valleys, oceans and rivers, grass, flowers, fruits and vegetables, animals, fish and birds. On that memorable Friday He finished creating Adam and Eve, the masterpieces of His creation. The Bible tells us that "God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good." Now the Master Artist was ready to put His autograph on His work of creation. And God "rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made." So the Sabbath is God's autograph as He finished creating our world.

1. When and by whom was the Sabbath made? Genesis 2:1–3.

"Because He had rested upon the Sabbath, 'God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it'—set it apart to a holy use. He gave it to Adam as a day of rest. It was a memorial of the work of creation, and thus a sign of God's power and His love. The Scripture says, ‘He hath made His wonderful works to be remembered.’ ” —The Desire of Ages, p. 281.

2. Which day of the week is the Sabbath, and what does the fourth commandment tell us to do? Exodus 20:8–11.

Everyone enjoys holidays and vacations when one can forget about school and work and just relax. We like getting away with our family to some hideaway in the mountains, at the ocean, or even just for a picnic lunch in a park. After returning home, we feel refreshed and energized, ready to take up our daily duties once again. Our heavenly Father knew that a few holidays and vacation days per year would not be enough for us to rest, so He gave us the Sabbath, a weekly holy day.

The Sabbath is different from any other holiday, for it was made by God. Man-made holidays such as Labor Day, Independence Day and Thanksgiving Day, are made to observe important historical events. But the Sabbath, God’s holy day, was made to help us observe creation week. Each week when we keep the Sabbath, we remember that almost 6,000 years ago, God created us, the heavens and the earth, and all that is in them. God knew that as sin entered our world, it would be easy for us to forget Him and His creative power, so He gave us the fourth commandment which says, “Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.”

1. What makes the Sabbath different from all the other days of the week? Ezekiel 20:20.

“By observing the true Sabbath Christians are ever to bear to the world faithful witness of their knowledge of the true and living God as distinguished from all false gods, for the Lord of the Sabbath is the Creator of the heavens and the earth, the One exalted above all other gods.” —Selected Messages, vol. 3, p. 256.

2. Some Christians believe that God took thousands of years to create our world. They state that He did not create it in six literal days. Are they right or wrong? Genesis 2:2. Underline the answer.

“The weekly cycle of seven literal days, six for labor, and the seventh for rest, which has been preserved and brought down through Bible history, originated in the great fact of the first seven days.” —The SDA Bible Commentary [E.G. White Comments], vol. 1, p. 1081.

A Sign Between God and Me

STOP! YIELD! SLOW DOWN! When we drive on the streets and freeways we see many signs on the road. If we had no signs or traffic rules, we would be in big trouble. There would be confusion, accidents, and death. It would take twice as long to get to a destination. Just think what would happen if there were no traffic signs on the freeways. You would have trouble figuring out which way was California, and which way was Colorado.

The Sabbath is a sign between God and us. It tells to the world that we are His people and that we obey His law. Have you been lifting up the Sabbath sign?

1. What makes the fourth commandment different from all the other commandments? Compare the fourth commandment to the other nine. Exodus 20:2–17.

It is the only one that has the ____ and ____ of the Lawgiver.

“The fourth commandment is the only one of all the ten in which are found both the name and the title of the Lawgiver. It is the only one that shows by whose authority the law is given. Thus it contains the seal of God, affixed to His law as evidence of its authenticity and binding force.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 307.

2. How long will the Sabbath be a sign between God and us? Exodus 31:17. Fill in the missing vowels.

Why do you go to church on Saturday and not on Sunday? Why don't you go to school, clean your bedroom or mow the lawn on Sabbath? You must know the answers to these questions for yourself. You need to be able to show from the Bible why you are a Sabbathkeeper.

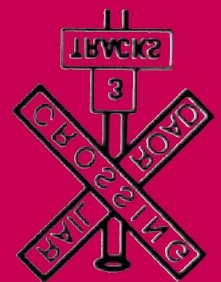

God has clearly told us that the Sabbath is the sign that points to the city of God. But Satan through his agents has changed that signpost and set up a false sabbath. They have made a breach in the law of God, and someone must repair it. God is calling you and me to repair that breach by putting the Sabbath in its rightful position. It is our work to lead our friends and neighbors to understand which is the true Sabbath and how it has been changed. God has called us to lift the sign of the downtrodden Sabbath. We can do this by understanding why we must keep the Sabbath, by setting a right example in Sabbathkeeping, and by sharing the Sabbath with everyone we know.

1. God placed the tree of knowledge of good and evil in the middle of the Garden. What did He place in the middle of the ten commandments? Exodus 20:8–11. Why? Underline the answer.

“As the tree of knowledge was placed in the midst of the Garden of Eden, so the Sabbath command is placed in the midst of the Decalogue. In regard to the fruit of the tree of knowledge, the restriction was made, ‘Ye shall not eat of it . . . lest ye die.’ Genesis 3:3. Of the Sabbath, God said, Ye shall not defile it, but keep it holy. ‘Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.’ Exodus 20:8. As the tree of knowledge was the test of Adam’s obedience, so the fourth command is the test that God has given to prove the loyalty of all His people.” — Our High Calling, p. 343.

2. Jeremy, your next-door neighbor goes to church on Sunday. He comes to your door on Sabbath afternoon and asks, Why do you go to church on Saturday instead of Sunday? On a separate piece of paper, write out your answer. Use Genesis 2:3; Exodus 20:8–11; 31:13–17 for your references.

“ ‘The importance of the Sabbath as the memorial of creation is that it keeps ever present the true reason why worship is due to God’—because He is the Creator, and we are His creatures. . . . It was to keep this truth ever before the minds of men, that God instituted the Sabbath in Eden; and so long as the fact that He is our Creator continues to be a reason why we should worship Him, so long the Sabbath will continue as its sign and memorial.” —The Great Controversy, pp. 437, 438.

God is a worker. Six long days He worked to create our world. On the seventh He rested and showed us how we must rest to keep the Sabbath holy. Work is a blessing and all true Christians will be diligent workers, so when the Sabbath comes along, they will truly enjoy it as a day of rest.

But rest is not inactivity. Rest means resting from our school work, physical labor, plans and worries. So while we rest on the Sabbath from our weekly cares and work, we do other pleasant activities. We spend time with God by studying His Word at home and in church, fellowshiping with our families and other Christians. Sabbath is also the day that we do deeds of kindness and spend time with God in nature. These Sabbath activities relax our mind, give us peace and joy, and best of all, help us to be strong Christians.

1. While God commands us to rest on the seventh day of the week, what does He tell us to do on the other six? Exodus 20:9. Underline three blessings of this activity.

“God appointed labor as a blessing to man, to occupy his mind, to strengthen his body, and to develop his faculties. . . . And when, as a result of his disobedience, he was driven from his beautiful home, and forced to struggle with a stubborn soil to gain his daily bread, that very labor, although widely different from his pleasant occupation in the garden, was a safeguard against temptation and a source of happiness. . . . The true joy of life is found only by the working men and women [juniors and youth]. The angels are diligent workers; they are the ministers of God to the children of men.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 50.

2. While we rest from our weekly work and activities, we do not fold our hands and sit around the house on the Sabbath. Neither do we stay in bed all day and try to catch up on sleep. What Sabbath activities has God provided for us to do? Write down at least four of them.

1. How is the Sabbath a holy day, a memorial of God's creation and creative power in your life?
2. How do we know that God created our world in six literal days and rested on the seventh day?
3. How is the Sabbath commandment different from the other nine?
4. How many of your neighbors know that you worship God on the seventh day of the week, and why?
5. Why is not the Sabbath for lazy people?

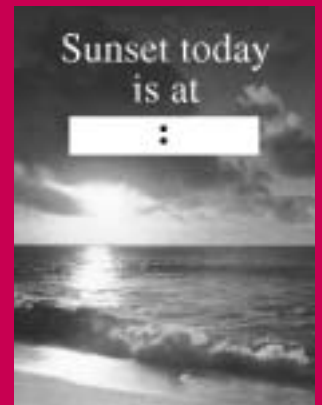

Assignment:

Make a plan with your family to let every neighbor know that you are a Sabbathkeeper and the reason why. Think of how Jesus would do it, rather than making yourself "preachy" or having a "holier-than-thou" attitude.

Repairing the Breach

Memory Verse:
“And they that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in.”

A Big, Wide Gap

Lesson Helps:
Bible Readings for the Home [1958 edition], pp. 430–441.

Key Words:
 Seethe, Judaize, Man of sin, Breach, Repairer, Restorer.

Choices:

What would you do if you knew Jesus would be teaching your Sabbath school lesson next week?

In the back of our house, there is a dirt road where we like to walk. There's a big, wide gap in the middle of the road. The gap is so big and wide that you can't walk through it or jump over it. In fact, whenever it rains, the gap splits wider and deeper, looking like a giant mouth ready to swallow up anyone or anything that walks by.

The gap in the road reminds me of the gap or breach that was made in the law of God by the “man of sin.” He has taken out the fourth commandment which tell us to worship the Creator of heaven and earth on His holy Sabbath, the seventh day of the week. To cover up the change, he divided the tenth commandment into two, so that there still appears to be ten commandments.

1. When was the breach made in the law of God? How did Sunday observance begin? Underline the answer.

After the Roman Emperor, Constantine the Great, became converted to Christianity, he legalized Sunday as a day of rest in 321 A.D. At that time, he did not forbid Christians to observe the Sabbath. This was done by the Roman church during the Council of Laodicea, somewhere between the years 343 and 381 A.D. Listen to their words, “Christians shall not Judaize and be idle on Saturday, but shall work on that day, but the Lord's day [Sunday] they shall especially honour, and, as being Christians, shall, if possible, do no work on that day. If, however, they are found Judaizing, they shall be shut out from Christ.” —Charles Joseph Hefele, A History of the Councils of the Church, vol. 2 (1896 English ed.), p. 316.

2. How did God, through the prophet Daniel, predict the change in the Sabbath commandment? Daniel 7:25. What power has falsely claimed the authority to change God's law?

“The Catholic Church . . . by virtue of her divine mission, changed the day from Saturday to Sunday.” —The Catholic Mirror, Sept. 23, 1893.

“We observed Sunday instead of Saturday because the Catholic Church transferred the solemnity from Saturday to Sunday.” —Peter Geiermann, The Convert's Catechism of Catholic Doctrine (1946 ed.), p. 50.

“You may read the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, and you will not find a single line authorizing the sanctification of Sunday. The Scriptures enforce the religious observance of Saturday, a day which we never sanctify.”—James Cardinal Gibbons, The Faith of Our Fathers (1917 ed.), pp. 72, 73.

“If we consulted the Bible only, we should still have to keep holy the Sabbath Day, that is, Saturday.”—John Laux, A Course in Religion for Catholic High Schools and Academies, vol. 1 (1936 ed.), p. 51.

3. Do Protestants agree that the day of worship has been changed from Sabbath to Sunday in the Bible? Notice, these are their words:

“And where are we told in the Scriptures that we are to keep the first day at all? We are commanded to keep the seventh; but we are nowhere commanded to keep the first day. . . . The reasons why we keep the first day of the week holy instead of the seventh is for the same reason that we observe many other things, not because the Bible, but because the church, has enjoined it.” —Isaac Williams (Anglican), Plain Sermons on the Catechism, vol. 1, pp. 334, 336.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to live in a world where everyone would keep the Sabbath holy? In that case, the post office, supermarkets, department stores, mechanic shops and all businesses would be closed on Saturday. Everyone would be going to church on Saturday, the seventh day of the week. Life used to be that way all the way to the fifth century. Socrates, the church historian writes. “Almost all the churches throughout the world celebrate the sacred mysteries of the Sabbath every week.” Had the Sabbath been kept around the world, today we would not have one atheist, infidel or idolater says the book The Great Controversy.

But because the “man of sin” has changed the fourth commandment, most of the people in the world don't believe in the true God. Also, many wonderful, honest Christians have been deceived, and are worshiping on the first day of the week. God is very sad about the situation. This is why He is calling for an army of “rebuilders.” Today He is calling you and me to be the “repairers of the breach and the restorers of paths to dwell in.” He is calling us to get busy and repair His broken law, and especially the Sabbath.

How can we do that? This is what these lessons are about. So tune in and learn how you can become a “rebuilder” of God's law.

▼ Monday

Where are the Repairers?

1. What did Jesus say of those who would break or change one of the least of God's commandments and teach others to do so? Matthew 5:19.

2. How does Jesus regard the worship of those who do not obey His commandments? Matthew 15:9.

There are many ways that you and I can rebuild the Sabbath commandment. One is by preparing for the Sabbath all week long. Remember is the first word in the Sabbath commandment. So, all through the week we are to remember the Sabbath. Maybe on Sunday we will polish our Sabbath shoes and wash our clothes. On Tuesday we may mow the lawn. On Wednesday we may help Mother make bread, and on Thursday we may clean our closets and bedrooms. On Friday we can help with cooking, dusting, sweeping, vacuuming and mopping floors. In this way we will be finished with all our work well before sundown Friday evening.

When we prepare for the Sabbath a little each day of the week, we will not have so much work to do by the time Friday comes along. Best of all, we will not be so tired when God's holy Sabbath day begins. We will have energy to worship and praise Him on His holy day.

1. What is the first word of the fourth commandment, and why did God put it there? Exodus 20:8.

"At the very beginning of the fourth commandment the Lord said; 'Remember.' He knew that amid the multitude of cares and perplexities man would be tempted to excuse himself from meeting the full requirement of the law, or would forget its sacred importance. Therefore He said: 'Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.' Exodus 20:8." —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 353.

2. Make a plan with your family as to how you can prepare for the Sabbath each day of the week, starting with Sunday. Write down the jobs you will do each day of the week.

Getting Ready for School

Most of you go to school five days a week, either at home or at a Christian school. Some of you may not have a choice, but to attend a public school. We know that you study very hard for your regular daily school. You probably do your homework faithfully every evening. But what about your Sabbath school homework? Do you study your Sabbath Bible Lesson faithfully each day? Or perhaps you think, “My Sabbath school teacher doesn’t give me any grades, so it doesn’t matter if I study or not.”

It does matter that you study your Sabbath Bible Lesson every day. We hope you are not studying only for your teacher, but get to know Jesus as your best friend, and also for yourself that you may be a strong Christian. Jesus is very sad when you do not study your lessons, for that clearly shows Him that you do not care about Him or His Word. He wants you to make Him the first and best in everything. In fact, He wishes you and your parents to make your Sabbath school lesson study more important than your regular school. Let’s see how we can improve in this area.

1. What is more important to study, your daily school lessons or your Sabbath school lesson?

“Even greater care should be taken by the parents to see that their children have their Scripture lessons, than is taken to see that their day-school lessons are prepared. Their Scripture lessons should be learned more perfectly than their lessons in the common schools. If parents and children see no necessity for this interest, then the children might better remain at home; for the Sabbath school will fail to prove a blessing to them.” —Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 57.

2. What advice does God give to those who say, “I have no time to study my Sabbath Bible Lesson”? How should we feel if we did not study our lesson? 2 Timothy 2:15.

“There are many children [juniors and youth] who plead a lack of time as a reason why their Sabbath school lessons are not learned; but there are few who could not find time to learn their lessons if they had an interest in them.” —Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 56.

When you do your homework and study for the daily school, do you like to do it alone or with a friend? Although it is important to study by ourselves, we often like to study with a friend, especially those hard subjects. Learning is more fun when we do it in a group. What about your Sabbath Bible lesson? Do you study it alone or with your family? You may say, “Wait a minute, I am too old to study with my family. After all, I can read and write and can do just fine by myself.” But God knows what is best for you and your parents. He says that parents and children should study their lesson together. There are many good reasons why you should study with your parents: 1) you will understand your lesson better; 2) you will get deeper into the subject; 3) you will learn about the topic from many points of view; 4) you will appreciate your parents much more, and 5) you will get closer as a family. So, if you haven't done so already, include your parents in your lesson study and notice the difference.

1. When should we begin to study our Sabbath school lessons?

“Let the Sabbath school lesson be learned, not by a hasty glance at the lesson scripture on Sabbath morning, but by careful study for the next week on Sabbath afternoon, with daily review or illustration during the week. Thus the lesson will become fixed in the memory, a treasure never to be wholly lost.” — Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 43.

2. How can you get the most benefit from studying the lesson each week? Circle the answers.

- a. To get the most out of my lessons I should study them with my parents. True or False
- b. I should study my lesson on Friday night only. True or False
- c. When I look up all the Bible texts and write out the answers, I have done a good job in studying my lesson. True or False

“Parents should search the Scriptures with their children. They should become familiar with the lessons themselves; then they can assist their children in learning them. Every day some portion of time should be appropriated to the study of the lessons, not merely in learning to mechanically repeat the words, while the mind does not comprehend the meaning; but to go to the very foundation, and become familiar with what is brought out in the lesson.” — Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 53.

- 1. Who changed the law of God and when?
- 2. What would have happened if the Sabbath had been kept around the world?
- 3. How can you remember the Sabbath all week long?
- 4. What should be your most important work each day, to study for your regular school or for Sabbath school?
- 5. What can you do to get the most benefit from studying your lesson?

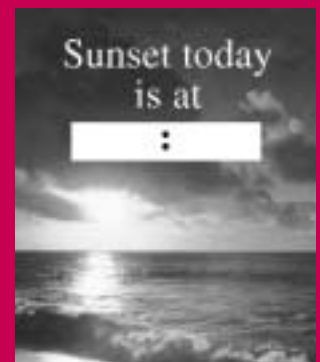

Assignment:

Talk with your parents and ask them to make a commitment to study your lesson with you every day. Tell them they can make it part of your family worship morning or evening, depending on when they have more time.

The Law of God vs. the Law of Man

Compare the commandments below as given by God and as changed by man. Memorize those specific changes that have been made so that you can share with others.

As Given by Jehovah

I

Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

II

Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; and shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

III

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

IV

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

V

Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

VI

Thou shalt not kill.

VII

Thou shalt not commit adultery.

VIII

Thou shalt not steal.

IX

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

X

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

As Changed by Man

I

I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt not have strange gods before me.

II

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

III

Remember thou to keep holy the Sabbath day.

IV

Honor thy father and thy mother.

V

Thou shalt not kill.

VI

Thou shalt not commit adultery.

VII

Thou shalt not steal.

VIII

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

IX

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife.

X

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods.

What kind of special math assignments should you do on Friday when Sabbath begins?

Preparing ourselves for the visit of a very special guest is always very exciting at our home and probably at yours also. You were perhaps waiting for a first-time visit from your cousins, grandparents or some friends. There was so much to do. You helped Mother clean the house to perfection. The bathroom mirrors, sinks, tubs, toilets, and floors were washed and polished. Your bedroom looked brand new after you neatly hung the clothes in the closet, organized the drawers, and dusted. The floor was vacuumed or washed. Of course, you didn't forget the yard. You swept the porch and sidewalk, mowed the lawn, watered the flowers and maybe even gave your dog or cat a bath.

Inside the kitchen, you helped Mother prepare some of the most delicious food and desserts. When the cleaning and cooking were all finished, you took a shower and dressed in good clothes. Then, tired, yet with a smiling face, you eagerly waited for your guests to arrive. Perhaps you even drove your bike to the street corner, waiting for them.

You and I have the privilege of entertaining special guests at our homes each Friday evening. Jesus and the holy angels come to celebrate the Sabbath with us. Do you prepare yourself, your house and yard for them as well as you do for earthly guests?

- 1. What special work should we do on Friday in preparation for the Sabbath? How did the Israelites prepare their food for the Sabbath? Exodus 16:22, 23.

to seethe = to boil or to stew

“On Friday let the preparation for the Sabbath be completed. See that all the clothing is in readiness and that all the cooking is done. Let the boots be blacked and the baths be taken. It is possible to do this. If you make it a rule you can do it. The Sabbath is not to be given to the repairing of garments, to the cooking of food, to pleasure seeking, or to any other worldly employment. Before the setting of the sun let all secular work be laid aside and all secular papers be put out of sight.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 355.

2. What did some of the Israelites do on the Sabbath? How did God reprove their disobedience? Exodus 16:27–29.

3. How should we prepare our bodies, shoes, and clothes for the Sabbath? Exodus 19:10, 11. Unscramble.

“The people [of Israel] were required to refrain from worldly labor and care, and to possess devotional thoughts. God required them also to wash their clothes. He is no less particular now than He was then. He is a God of order, and requires His people now upon the earth to observe habits of strict cleanliness. And those who worship God with uncleanly garments and persons, do not come before Him in an acceptable manner. He is not pleased with their lack of reverence for Him, and He will not accept the service of filthy worshipers, for they insult their Maker. The Creator of the heavens and of the earth considered cleanliness of so much importance that He said, ‘And let them wash their clothes.’ ” —The Spirit of Prophecy, vol. 1, pp. 233, 234.

If you were going to visit the president of your country in his office, you would wear the best clothes you had. Most likely you would take a bath, and wash and iron your nicest dress or pants. Next you’d polish your shoes to perfection. At last, you would dress yourself and comb your hair just so.

Each Sabbath morning we have a meeting not with the president, but with the King of the universe. This is the time to wear your nicest clothes. In fact, if your parents can afford it, you should have special clothes just for the Sabbath. If you have only one set of clothes, make sure you freshly wash and iron them so they are clean and nice for the Sabbath.

Just think what an important person you are. Each Sabbath morning at 9:30 a.m., little, humble, you have an important meeting with the Creator of the heavens and earth.

▼ Monday
Sabbath Clothes

1. What should we wear to church on Sabbath? Are jean pants or skirt and a t-shirt acceptable when we have much better clothes?

“Many need instruction as to how they should appear in the assembly for worship on the Sabbath. They are not to enter the presence of God in the common clothing worn during the week. All should have a special Sabbath suit, to be worn when attending service in God’s house. While we should not conform to worldly fashions, we are not to be indifferent in regard to our outward appearance. We are to be neat and trim, though without adornment. The children of God should be pure within and without.” — Child Guidance, p. 531.

2. While we should have neat and clean Sabbath clothes, what should we be careful about when we choose to buy our clothes? 1 Peter 3:3, 4.

“All should be taught to be neat, clean, and orderly in their dress, but not to indulge in that external adorning which is wholly inappropriate for the sanctuary. There should be no display of the apparel, for this encourages irreverence. The attention of the people is often called to this or that fine article of dress, and thus thoughts are intruded that should have no place in the hearts of the worshipers. God is to be the subject of thought, the object of worship; and anything that attracts the mind from the solemn, sacred service is an offense to Him. The parading of bows and ribbons, ruffles and feathers, and gold and silver ornaments is a species of idolatry and is wholly inappropriate for the sacred service of God.” — Child Guidance, pp. 427, 428.

Cooking, cleaning, washing and taking baths, are all easy jobs. But there is another work that we must do before the Sabbath begins. Let’s say you had a grudge against one of your classmates at school because he/she had spread some lies about you. Before the Sabbath begins, you must forgive your classmate and get rid of those bad feelings.

Also you need to do some math before Sabbath begins. You may take out a piece of paper; divide it lengthwise. On one side write a plus (+); on the other a minus (–). Now think back what victories you had during the week. How much time did you spend reading your Bible? How often did you think and talk about Jesus? How many deeds of kindness did you do for your mother, father, brother, sister, neighbor, friend or enemy? Put all these good deeds on the plus side. Next, think of the temptations you did not overcome, the selfish thoughts and acts, the unkind words you thought and said, the duties you did not do, the help you didn’t give to your parents, the fights you had with your brother or sister. Write all these on the minus side of the paper. Compare the pluses and the minuses.

▼ Tuesday

Do Some Math on Friday

The above exercise is something we must do each Friday afternoon. Now, you may not want to write it down, but you can just do some mental math and see how your walk with Jesus was this week compared to last.

1. James had a big fight with his brother during the week. Although they forgave one another, they still are avoiding each other. What should they do before the Sabbath begins? James 5:16.

“There is another work that should receive attention on the preparation day. On this day all differences between brethren, whether in the family or in the church, should be put away. Let all bitterness and wrath and malice be expelled from the soul. In a humble spirit, ‘confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.’ James 5:16.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 356.

2. What kind of math does God want us to do before we begin the Sabbath? 2 Corinthians 13:5; Galatians 6:4. Read these verses. Then, put the words in the right order to find the answer.

“Before the Sabbath begins, the mind as well as the body should be withdrawn from worldly business. God has set His Sabbath at the end of the six working days, that men may stop and consider what they have gained during the week in preparation for the pure kingdom which admits no transgressor. We should each Sabbath reckon with our souls to see whether the week that has ended has brought spiritual gain or loss.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 356.

Mrs. Shepherd was visiting her neighbor when she overheard her children talking to the neighbor’s children. The conversation went like this:

“What is your favorite night of the week?” someone asked.

“I like Sunday night, because my favorite TV show is on,” said the neighbor’s girl.

“I like Monday night,” her brother stated, “because I like to watch football with my dad.”

Mrs. Shepherd then heard her own children say, “We like Friday night the best.”

“Friday night?” the other two children replied in disbelief. “Why then?”

“We like Friday nights because that’s family night at our home. We spend the whole evening welcoming the Sabbath with our mom and dad. Mother plays the piano and we all join in singing our favorite songs. Father reads the Bible and we discuss what we read. The part we like the best about Friday night is when each one of us shares what God has done for us during the week and we give Him thanks. After a prayer, we all go to the table for Sabbath supper. Mother always makes some special food for the Sabbath. We would not trade Sabbath for any other day of the week.”

▼ Wednesday

Opening the Sabbath

1. When does the Sabbath begin? Leviticus 23:32. How do we begin the Sabbath?

“Before the setting of the sun, let the members of the family assemble to read God’s Word, to sing and pray.” —Child Guidance, p. 529.

“As the sun goes down, let the voice of prayer and the hymn of praise mark the close of the sacred hours and invite God’s presence through the cares of the week of labor.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 359.

2. Is it all right to begin the Sabbath a little late and finish it early because we have to go somewhere? If possible, when should people get off work on Fridays? Underline.

“We should jealously guard the edges of the Sabbath. Remember that every moment is consecrated, holy time. Whenever it is possible, employers should give their workers the hours from Friday noon until the beginning of the Sabbath. Give them time for preparation, that they may welcome the Lord’s day with quietness of mind. By such a course you will suffer no loss even in temporal things.” —Ibid., p. 356.

Do you know what is the meaning of the word Sabbath? Shabbath, the Hebrew word for Sabbath, means “to cease” or stop from work and activity. As God rested from His work of creating on the Sabbath, so He wants us to rest from our work. We already learned that we must rest from our physical work, but the Bible tells us that “There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God.” Hebrews 4:9. Let us find out what this rest is all about.

1. What does God want us to rest from every day, but especially on the Sabbath day? Hebrews 4:9, 10.

As God rested from His work of creation on the Sabbath, so He wants us to rest from our works, which are our sins and bad motives, thoughts, and actions.

2. Write down the list of bad works from which we must rest on not only on the Sabbath but on every day. Galatians 5:19–21.

Getting Along Without Sabbath (Part I)

“Here it is, Friday again!” growled Henry. “How I do wish we could jump over to Sunday!”

“So do I,” joined in Tanja. “Sabbath is such a quiet day, and there is nothing to do but listen to stories and go walking. It is such a long day,” she sighed.

That Friday morning, when they complained about the approaching Sabbath with such discontent, little did they know of the many days of sadness and trial ahead of them, or of how much the Sabbath really meant to them. That very week Mother was taken ill, and the doctor said that she must go to the mountains immediately. He could not promise that she would come back to her boy and girl. Tanja and Henry begged to go along, but Mother was too sick to take care of them, and Father would be busy caring for Mother. So the children would have to go to Aunt Nell’s home in Boston.

It was a sober group that gathered in the living room that last night. Mother had been propped up in a big chair before the fire, and Tanja and Henry had pulled their chairs as close as possible. It would be the last Friday evening worship for the children; in fact, it would be the last worship of any kind, except Sabbath's devotions, that they would attend for months, for in Aunt Nell's beautiful home there would be no time for family prayers. There would be plenty of parties and outings, plenty of light and laughter, but no time for God. Oh, how Mother and Father prayed that their children would keep true to Jesus in the midst of wealth and worldliness! Something in Mother's voice, as she prayed that her boy and girl might not desecrate the Sabbath, lingered long in Tanja's heart. Somehow that last Sabbath evening claimed its place as one of their treasured memories in the months to come.

The excitement of the trip and the novelty of the new surroundings eased the pain of parting. And really, Aunt Nell was lots of fun. Almost the first thing she did was to invite the boys and girls of the neighborhood in for a party. Tanja and Henry had a good time, and the ice cream and cake were delicious.

Then, almost before they knew it, Friday came. With it came the first real wave of homesickness. Aunt Nell had company for dinner, and the house resounded with laughter and music, but somehow in Tanja's heart there was another picture, which was dearer. Mother was again beside the fireplace in the dear old home, and her arms were about her. Henry was on a stool at her feet, and even Father had laid aside his reading to listen to the Bible stories. Oh, those beautiful, dear Bible stories. Mother's voice was so sweet, and suddenly Tanja knew she loved those stories better than any others. They were more real to her than all the funny things Aunt Nell's charming guests could say. A lump came into her throat and made a great big ache. Quietly she slipped into the dim library. Groping her way to the darkened cozy corner beside the fireplace, she was about to bury her face in the pillows for a good cry, when she was startled by a sob from the opposite corner.

"O Tanja!" Henry's voice was tearful, "I didn't think I could miss home so much. I—I like our home Friday nights best." Then in a few more minutes, "Do you suppose Mother and Father are missing us tonight too?"

Tanja couldn't answer just then; the ache in her throat stifled the words. There was a flood of tears, and then there was quietness for a long time.

"Henry," at last she whispered, "come here."

He pulled a cushion from the bench and settled it at Tanja's feet.

"What story shall it be?" asked Tanja, smoothing the forehead at her knee.

"Tell me about Moses, Tanja—about how he had to leave home when he was a little boy, and how he remembered God."

Tanja knew it very well; she could hear the very words and tone Mother would use; and Henry, listening with closed eyes, could almost make himself believe that he was at home and Mother was there too.

The story ended, and again there was silence.

"Henry," said Tanja at last, "let's pray and ask God to help us keep His Sabbath. Somehow, Henry, I never knew what a dear thing the Sabbath is."

And there, while the music and laughter floated in from the brilliantly lighted living room, Tanja and Henry knelt in their quiet, dim corner. And there they found comfort in God. To them the blessedness of a Sabbath evening brought balm for aching hearts.

A Day of Happiness

What can you do to make the Sabbath a day of gladness for you and your family?

What was the happiest day of your life? One of the happiest days in heaven was that first Sabbath after God created our world. At that time, “the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.” Job 38:7. I can imagine that Jesus probably spent that first Sabbath with Adam and Eve, and showed them how to keep it holy. Perhaps He took them for a walk around that beautiful garden and showed them the snow-white water lilies, the crimson-red roses and said, “Look at these, I made them all for you.” Perhaps the angels came over and brought their harps to sing songs of praise with Adam and Eve. Wouldn’t you have liked to be there on that first Sabbath?

But, wait. We also have visitors from heaven at our Sabbath schools and churches. As we happily and reverently sing, pray, and take part in Sabbath school and church, heavenly angels join us with their harps and heavenly choirs. So if your eyes could be opened, you would see angels, ascending and descending from heaven to your little church on earth each Sabbath morning. Yes, whether you live in France, Romania, Argentina, Brazil, Canada or anywhere else, you are connected to God’s church in heaven.

1. God wants the Sabbath to be the happiest day of our week. Is Sabbath the happiest day of your week? Why or why not? Be honest with your answer.

2. What can you do to make Sabbath the happiest day of the week? Isaiah 58:13, 14.

“I can’t find any matching socks,” yelled Jason to his mother. “Where is my white shirt? he asked. “You’ll have to dig through that pile of clean laundry in the basket,” said mother. On the other end of the house Father and Melanie were desperately hurrying to study a few questions of this week’s Sabbath school lesson, so they wouldn’t have to be embarrassed in Sabbath school. We hope that Sabbath mornings at your home are not like this.

Now let’s take a look at the Johnston family. Everyone is up at 6 o’clock. Soft Christian music is playing in the background. Mother and Father have gone for a walk, while the children are making their beds and listening to Bible story tapes. There is a special peace and quietness in this house. Later you find them reviewing their lesson and having morning worship. Everyone is happy and unhurried. We pray that by God’s grace your family can have such a peaceful atmosphere as you prepare for church on Sabbath morning.

1. Why should we not stay home on the Sabbath day? Hebrews 10:24, 25.

2. What advice does God give to those who sleep in late on Sabbath morning, and come late to Sabbath school? Proverbs 6:9–11.

“It is a sad failing with many that they are always behind time on Sabbath morning. They are very particular about their own time, they cannot afford to lose an hour of that; but the Lord’s time, the only day out of the seven that the Lord claims as His, and requires us to devote to Him, quite a portion of this is squandered away by sleeping late in the morning. In this they are robbing God. It causes them to be behind in everything; it makes confusion in the family; and finally results in the tardiness of the entire family at Sabbath school, and perhaps at meeting. Now why can we not rise early with the birds, and offer praise and thanksgiving to God? Try it, brethren and sisters. Have your preparations all made the day before, and come promptly to the Sabbath school and meeting, and you will thereby not only benefit others, but will reap rich blessings for yourselves.” —The Youth Instructor, March 19, 1879.

“[Parents and children] should be up with the sun, and have plenty of time to prepare for Sabbath school without getting into a rush, and perhaps losing self-control. If the proper preparations have been made the previous day, there will be abundance of time to review the lesson studied during the week; and both parents and children can go to the school with the assurance that they have the lessons well learned.” —Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 54.

At Church

Have you ever watched children, juniors, youth, and adults during the break between Sabbath school and church? In many churches, adults are talking with adults, the children are with other children, while both the juniors and youth have their own friends. It seems like everyone is making sure they are staying in their own group, but this is not God's way. Church is one big family made up of parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles, babies, children, juniors and youth. So make sure you know everyone in your church family and take an interest in them. Greet them with a smile and handshake. Say "Good Morning, Brother Smith. Did you have a good week?"

Talk to the children, adults and seniors. Jesus and the angels will be happy to see you taking an interest in everyone in your church and exercising Christian courtesy. We can't imagine that there will be any cliques in heaven.

1. What should we do on Sabbath morning? Leviticus 23:3; Hebrews 10:25.

convocation means "a calling together," a meeting

2. Why is it important that we go to church on Sabbath? Hebrews 10:24.

3. How can you get the most benefit from a sermon? Complete the sentences.

- Sing out loud and with a _____ a. texts
- _____ to the sermon. b. parents
- Take _____. c. cheerful heart
- Look up Bible _____. d. Pay attention
- Read the Bible if they ask for _____. e. to wander
- Pray sometimes when they ask for a _____. f. notes
- Don't allow your mind _____. g. readers
- Be ready to discuss the sermon with your _____. h. volunteers

While we were enjoying our lunch, Mr. and Mrs. Western Bluebird were busy making their nest on our deck. Mr. Bluebird was standing next to the nesting house and guarding it from other birds, while Mrs. Bluebird was flying back and forth bringing building materials for the nest. Amazed at the sight, we gathered around the window to watch this family at work. On her next delivery, Mrs. Bluebird had brought a long five-inch stick for her nest, but she couldn't put it in through the one inch hole. We watched breathlessly, wondering how much wisdom this little bird had. She tried this way and that, but the stick wouldn't go in. After trying for several minutes, she finally figured out to slide it in sideways through the hole. We were amazed to see how persistent this mother bird was to get her work done. We also learned to be organized and work as a family unit.

You and your family can also have happy times on Sabbath afternoons in nature, learning from birds, listening to their songs, studying animals, flowers, plants and trees. Most of our Sabbath afternoon should be spent with our family in nature. Help your mother and father to plan great nature activities for Sabbath afternoons. Otherwise, if Mother and Father go to sleep and children and juniors are left alone on Sabbath afternoon, you know what happens. They may become restless and begin to play or get into mischief. And so everyone loses the Sabbath blessing. Mother and Father lose out for sleeping and not spending Sabbath time with Jesus and their family. Children miss out for doing their own pleasure on God's holy day.

1. What are some activities we can do in nature on the Sabbath? Isaiah 40:26; Psalm 19:1-3.

“On the holy rest day, above all other days, we should study the messages that God has written for us in nature. We should study the Saviour's parables where He spoke them, in the fields and groves, under the open sky, among the grass and flowers. As we come close to the heart of nature, Christ makes His presence real to us and speaks to our hearts of His peace and love.” —My Life Today, p. 140.

2. Here is a list of some Sabbath afternoon activities.

- Take along a handbook to identify birds, flowers, trees, or other living things during your nature hike.
- Learn the names of birds, flowers, trees.
- Train your ear to recognize the songs of different birds. (There are tapes and computer programs available with bird songs.)
- Collect leaves, wildflowers, pine cones, rocks or leaves. Bring them home and identify them.
- Learn the names of the stars. This would be a good activity after Sabbath sundown.
- After coming home from your nature hike, find Bible verses for some of the things you discovered in nature. For example, birds, flowers, rocks, clouds, and so on. Memorize them.
- The next time you go on your Sabbath walk, recite them as you see the trees, birds and flowers.
- As you go on your nature hike, and study the flowers, birds, trees, or ants, ask yourself: “What is this creature teaching me about the character of God?”

Sabbath Is for Families

Would you have liked to have been in Eden with Adam and Eve and God on that first Sabbath of creation? Well, here is your chance to live the life of Eden not only once a year, twice a year, or once a month, but every week. You and your family can relive the life of Eden each Sabbath, especially if you spend your Sabbath afternoons in nature learning about the things God has created. On Sabbath, Father does not have to rush and go to work. Mother does not have to cook, clean and wash laundry. You and your brothers or sisters have no chores or school work. Every one is calm and relaxed. No one is impatient or angry. This is what Sabbath is all about. It is a day to become a “new creature” in Jesus, a day when you can live the life of Eden here on earth.

- 1. If you have tried keeping the Sabbath the right way in your own strength, you know that this is impossible. What gift does Jesus offer you especially each Sabbath? Ephesians 2:8, 9.

“The Sabbath given to the world as the sign of God as the Creator is also the sign of Him as the Sanctifier. The power that created all things is the power that recreates the soul in His own likeness. To those who keep holy the Sabbath day it is the sign of sanctification. True sanctification is harmony with God, oneness with Him in character. It is received through obedience to those principles that are the transcript of His character. And the Sabbath is the sign of obedience.” —Testimonies, vol. 6, p. 350.

- 2. Why did Jesus create the Sabbath? Mark 2:27.

“The Sabbath and the family were alike instituted in Eden, and in God’s purpose they are indissolubly linked together. On this day more than on any other, it is possible for us to live the life of Eden. It was God’s plan for the members of the family to be associated in work and study, in worship and recreation. . . . Often the father hardly sees the faces of his children throughout the week. He is almost wholly deprived of opportunity for companionship or instruction. But God’s love has set a limit to the demands of toil. Over the Sabbath He places His merciful hand. In His own day He preserves for the family opportunity for communion with Him, with nature, and with one another.” —Child Guidance, pp. 535, 536.

Getting Along Without Sabbath (Part II)

The next morning the children, dressed in their best, arrived at the breakfast table before even Aunt Nell had time to call them.

"Why, what does this mean?" she asked in surprise.

"It means, that we'd like so much to go to Sabbath school," said Tanja.

"Nonsense," replied Aunt Nell, "I haven't any time to waste. Lily is coming today to help me clean the house, and this afternoon there will be a rush to get ready for the reception."

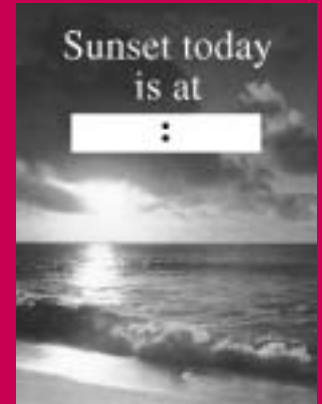

She did not take time to notice the quick tears which came into Tanja's eyes, nor the look of disappointment on Henry's face, but when she burst into the library that morning she found them reading the Bible. "Run along, children. You should be outdoors this lovely day," she began.

"Please, Aunt Nell, we're having Sabbath school. Can't we stay?" Henry's voice was earnest.

"Well, if you must," conceded the aunt. Something in her heart was touched as she saw the loyalty of the motherless children. She had once kept Sabbath herself, but money had proved too great a temptation. Secretly, however, she promised herself that she would find where there was a Seventh-day Adventist church, and the children would not have another lonely Sabbath.

The week passed, and again Sabbath drew on. Tanja and Henry met in the library at sundown, and there they told stories they had learned to each other. There they pledged again to keep God's holy Sabbath sacred, no matter what might happen. The coming morning held a surprise, however. When the breakfast bell rang, not only

"Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it." Exodus 20:8-11 did Tanja and Henry have their Sabbath clothes on, but Aunt Nell was ready to go out, too! Could it be possible? Was she going to take them out? Never had the children made ready for Sabbath school with such delight. Never before had they realized that they could not get along without Sabbath and be happy.

Did it just happen, or was it a plan of the loving Father that they were put into Miss Ray's class? Miss Ray was a real teacher. She knew and loved all her boys and girls. And the day didn't pass before she had visited with Tanja and Henry. She then knew all about their dear mother and father so far away, and without being told, about kind but worldly Aunt Nell. It is very queer, but she found it very convenient to call on the children Sabbath mornings. Then there was the class meetings at Miss Ray's home. They always had such a good, "homey" time there, and the games were like the ones that Father and Mother had planned for them. Often Miss Ray would take the children to her house after dinner on Sabbath, and they would go on afternoon walks, and hear Bible stories. "Almost like being with Mother and Father," Henry pointed out one day.

"Sabbath is our very best day of them all," remarked Tanja one Friday evening when she and Henry had sought the quiet library. "I don't believe we could ever get along without it."

But our story isn't quite over. Soon letters from the mountains started to sound very hopeful. "Mother is so much better," said one. "Mother was able to do more today than she had for a long time." "Mother gained three pounds this week," proclaimed others. Then one day came the happy news!

"Father's bought a farm, and Mother is able to take care of the house!" bel-lowed Henry. The children ran around the room in uncontrolled excitement. "We're going home! We're going home!" they shouted.

And what a homecoming it was! Mother, with rosy cheeks and a light in her eyes, held her children close. And many were the experiences that they had to tell to each other. Perhaps, though, the one Mother and Father liked to hear the best of all was the story of their children's first Sabbath in Boston, for they knew that God had used the Sabbath as a hedge about their boy and girl. ▼

Have you heard that there are some thieves among Sabbathkeepers?

This is our fifth lesson on the Sabbath and, although you may think you know all about it, we still have a few things to learn. You see, God wants you to learn everything there is to know about the Sabbath from A to Z, so you can be a “repairer” of this broken commandment.

Our memory verse tells us that God made the Sabbath for our happiness. So as you learn the do’s and don’ts about Sabbathkeeping, remember to say, “Thank you, Lord, for loving me so much and teaching me how to be happy on the Sabbath day.”

What shall we eat on the Sabbath? Should we make more food for this day than on the other days of the week?

- 1. The Parker family serves six different dishes, with two desserts on the Sabbath. “It’s Sabbath, and we might as well enjoy it,” they say. Are they right? Ecclesiastes 10:17. Why or why not?

“We should not provide for the Sabbath a more liberal supply or a greater variety of food than for other days. Instead of this the food should be more simple, and less should be eaten, in order that the mind may be clear and vigorous to comprehend spiritual things. Overeating befogs the brain. The most precious words may be heard and not appreciated, because the mind is confused by an improper diet. By overeating on the Sabbath, many have done more than they think to dishonor God.” —Child Guidance, p. 532.

A Day of Sharing

2. What happens to us when we overeat on the Sabbath?

“When we eat immoderately, we sin against our own bodies. Upon the Sabbath, in the house of God, gluttons will sit and sleep under the burning truths of God’s word. They can neither keep their eyes open, nor comprehend the solemn discourses given. Do you think that such are glorifying God in their bodies and spirits, which are His? No; they dishonor Him.” —Counsels on Diet and Foods, pp. 136, 137.

Your family has most likely had relatives or other guests who are not Seventh-day Adventists visiting you for several days. How are you supposed to deal with them on the Sabbath day? Let us see what the Word of God teaches.

1. What would you tell an unbelieving relative who was visiting you if she wanted to cook on the Sabbath? Exodus 20:10.
2. Farmer John is a Sabbathkeeper. His neighbor knocks on his door Sabbath afternoon and asks, “May I please borrow your ox to plow my field today? My animal is very sick. What should farmer John tell his neighbor? Exodus 20:10.

“One Sabbath morning Mother was not feeling well. In fact, she was feeling so bad that she had no strength to go to church. But as she remembered that everyone was depending on her to play the piano, she felt bad to stay at home. So, she prayed to the Lord, to show her what to do. An hour later her pain was gone, and she knew God wanted her to go to church.

“That Sabbath, Mother received a great blessing at church. Although she was very tired, she invited a sister who was a widow and an orphan boy for lunch. Mother served lasagna, a green salad and beets for lunch. Everyone helped in making the salad, warming the food, and setting the table. For dessert there was tofu ice cream.

“After lunch, we sat on a blanket in our yard and enjoyed the mountains and songs of birds. My brother and I brought out our violin and cello and played some songs. Mother read us some character-building stories. Soon, Father and other guests joined us as we went together on a mountain walk. Along the way, we saw many bear tracks. Since we live in ‘bear country’ it is always fun to find traces of where they have been. After our 3-mile walk, we came home, had dinner and closed the Sabbath. Truly this was one of the most beautiful Sabbaths my brother and I have had. And Mother agrees. She said, ‘I learned that it is more blessed to give than to receive.’”

You and your family can also share your time and love with those who need it most.

1. What did Jesus do on the Sabbath? John 9:14.

2. What did He tell His enemies when they accused Him of breaking the Sabbath? Mark 3:4.

3. How can we copy Jesus in doing good on the Sabbath? Fill in the blanks from the words below.

nursing home; call; can't pay us back; visit

- _____ the sick.
- Invite those who _____
_____ to our homes for lunch.
- Go to a _____. Read the Bible to the patients. Sing for them. Talk with them.
- _____ or visit those who didn't come to church that Sabbath. Tell them you missed them.

Have you ever met any thieves or robbers? If you haven't, we would like you to check out if there are any of them in your house. It is sad to say but it is true that there are among Seventh-day Adventists some Sabbath thieves. Let's see how this is possible.

Since the Sabbath is a day of rest, some people think that they can take the day off and not go to church. Other Sabbathkeepers like to play ball, swim or to eat at restaurants on the Sabbath day. Some others feel this is the day to stay home and catch up on sleep. But the Scriptures tell us that the Sabbath is "The day of the Lord," which means that this is God's day and we need to do things that please Him. If we don't, we are stealing time from Him. "This day is not yours; it is God's day, and you have no more right to take it than you have to steal my purse" (In Heavenly Places, p. 152).

1. What are some ways that children and youth steal time from God's holy day? Isaiah 58:13.

They do their own _____ on God's holy day.

They do their own _____.

They speak their own _____.

"The house of God is desecrated and the Sabbath violated by Sabbath believers' children. They run about the house, play, talk, and manifest their evil tempers in the very meetings where the saints have met together to glorify God and to worship Him in the beauty of holiness. neatness, and humility, is made to be a perfect Babylon and a place where confusion, disorder, and untidiness reign. This is enough to shut out God from our assemblies and cause His wrath to be kindled, that He will not be pleased to go out with the armies of Israel to battle against our enemies. . . .

“Boisterous noise and contention should not be allowed any day of the week; but on the Sabbath all should observe quietness. No loud-toned commands should be heard at any time; but on the Sabbath it is entirely out of place. This is God’s holy day, the day He has set apart to commemorate His creative works, a day He has sanctified and hallowed.” —Selected Messages, vol. 3, pp. 257, 258.

2. Can we work, shop, buy gasoline, or eat in restaurants on the Sabbath? Exodus 20:10.

“We are not to do our own work upon the Sabbath. God has given man six days for labor, but He has reserved the seventh to Himself, and He has pronounced a blessing upon those who keep it holy. On the sixth day all needful preparation for the Sabbath is to be made. . . . All purchases should be made and all our cooking should be done on Friday. . . . But nothing of our own work should be permitted to encroach upon holy time.” —In Heavenly Places, p. 151.

3. What are some other activities that steal time from God’s holy day? Underline the answer.

“Pleasure seeking, ball playing, swimming, was not a necessity [on the Sabbath day], but a sinful neglect of the sacred day sanctified by Jehovah.” —Selected Messages, vol. 3, p. 258.

“Let not the precious hours of the Sabbath be wasted in bed.” —Child Guidance, p. 530.

Just think what Sabbath will be like in the New Earth. In that heavenly country, no one will forget the Sabbath. No one will be tempted to go play ball on the Sabbath or to be careless in their conversation and actions. All of us will love God supremely. Our greatest joy will be to stand around His throne and praise Him for redeeming us from the world of sin and sorrow.

Perhaps you look forward to spending the Sabbath with Joseph or David. It would be nice to spend a few Sabbaths with Enoch, Daniel, Elisha, Peter, and Paul, but our favorite person to visit on the Sabbath will be Jesus.

1. How do we know that the Sabbath will be kept forever and ever through all eternity? Isaiah 66:22, 23.

“So long as the heavens and the earth endure, the Sabbath will continue as a sign of the Creator’s power. And when Eden shall bloom on earth again, God's holy rest day will be honored by all beneath the sun. 'From one sabbath to another' the inhabitants of the glorified new earth shall go up 'to worship before me, saith the Lord.' ” —Sons and Daughters of God, p. 59.

“I saw that the Sabbath never will be done away; but that the redeemed saints, and all the angelic host, will observe it in honor of the great Creator to all eternity.” —Early Writings, p. 217.

2. How different will our Sabbaths be in the New Earth? Write down your thoughts.

Challenge Question:

Some Sundaykeepers say that Christians today don't need to keep the Sabbath because it was nailed to the cross. How can you show them from the Bible that this statement is false?

1. Why should we eat less and more simply on the Sabbath?
2. What kind of clothes should we wear to church?
3. How can we show our love with others on the Sabbath?
4. What are Sabbath thieves? Are you one of them?
5. How do you think you will spend the Sabbath on the new earth?

Sabbath Afternoon Activities

To help you and your family be the “rebuilders” of the Sabbath commandment we have included some ideas how you can spend your Sabbath afternoons productively. You can help you to make it the happiest day of the week.

A. In Your Home

1. Make a List of Thank You's

On a rainy Sabbath you and your family can take time to list the persons, things and blessings for which you are thankful. It's easy to say, “Thank you, God, for everything,” but it is much more rewarding to list your blessings specifically.

2. Discover Your Christian Roots

Seventh-day Adventists have a special heritage and it is important for you to know how and when your parents, grandparents and great-grandparents became converted. Who helped to lead them to Christ? Spend a Sabbath afternoon or several afternoons interviewing Mom and Dad about their Christian heritage. But don't stop there. Read about the Millerite movement, the early Adventist church, and about the Reform Movement in the new book, History of the Reform Movement.

▼ Friday

Review and Application

3. Recite and Sing Bible Verses

All the family sits in a circle facing each other and they take turns reciting or singing verses. The key to success is that Mom and Dad also participate. Don't be discouraged if the first session results in just one or two verses, some blank stares, and the feeling that it's over almost before it has started. Agree on a date for some future Sabbath and take time between now and then to learn more new verses.

4. Twenty Questions

Someone chooses a Bible character, object, animal or location and the others have twenty chances to guess it. Guessers can only ask questions that can be answered with Yes or No. Start with a broad question such as: "Is it in the Old Testament?" "Is it in the first five books of the Bible?" "Is it a human being?" Finally, narrow it down to the individual object or person.

5. Sing Hymns

Spend at least half an hour to one hour each Sabbath afternoon singing your favorite hymns as a family. Memorize them. Get a book of hymn stories and read how the Lord inspired the people who wrote them. You will be amazed as you learn some of the marvelous stories behind your favorite hymns.

6. King James

The family sits around in a circle facing each other with a King James Bible in their hands. One person begins the game by reading from a chapter of his choice, repeating the first verse twice. As he continues reading slowly through the chapter, the others search their Bibles to find the spot from which he is reading. When they find it, they begin reading along with him until all are reading in unison. To begin, you'll want to read from chapters easy to identify, such as Genesis, Revelation and the Gospels. Then you can work up to the harder books of the Bible.

7. Group Creation Study

Seven volunteers each study one day of creation by drawing the number of the day from a hat. Each person finds an item to represent the things created on it. For example, to symbolize the first day, one might bring a prism, demonstrating the way light consists of different colors and give a short talk on the nature of light. Find a Bible verse on the subjects to make a spiritual application, such as "Ye are the light of the world, a city on the hill cannot be hid." You may want to use nature slides and music with the presentation or as an interlude between the days of the week. Keep each segment simple but interesting, using visual aids.

8. Write a Letter to a Bible Character

Does your family talk about heaven and what it will be like to meet there? Why wait till you get to heaven? Write your favorite Bible character a letter, asking him the questions you think you'd like to ask when you get to heaven. Although the character can't answer you now, you might find some answers in the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy books.

9. Bible Sword Drills

One person stands in front of a group who are holding their Bibles. He or she starts reading a specific but familiar Bible text. The person to stand and read the text aloud correctly gets to be the caller and the previous person joins those searching for texts. Another variation would be to call out a Bible incident and have the group find the book, chapter and verse.

10. Grab Bag

Mother or Father collect objects found in different Bible stories such as the red cord, a smooth stone and two pennies, placing them in a special "Sabbath grab bag." On a Sabbath afternoon, the youngest child reaches into the bag and draws out an item. If the child draws out two pennies the parent then tells the story of the widow and the two mites. The smooth stone might represent David and Goliath's story. As the children get older, the person who draws the article from the bag tells what the item symbolizes.

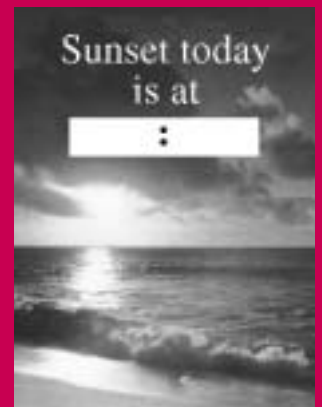

B. Christian Service Sabbath Activities

1. Visit church members who are sick and aged and those who didn't come to church.
2. Adopt a Grandparent

Visit the local convalescent hospital and adopt a grandparent. Maybe your grandparents live far away and you see them only once or twice a year. At the same time, senior citizens often have no family to visit and talk with, and would love to have a young person call them "Grandpa" or "Grandma." Adopting a grandparent involves visiting them regularly, reading to them, and writing letters to and for them. Talk to the hospital's recreational director. Ask him/her if they have a program for adopting grandparents and if not, find out if they would be interested in starting one with your group.

3. Read or Write for an Elderly Person

Suppose you visit a nursing home or an elderly church member at home, but don't know what to say after "Hello." Many elderly people would appreciate someone reading and writing letters for them. With old age come diseases that cause their eyes to fail. Sometimes they have not had their eyes checked in a long time and their glasses are not strong enough. Often they have stopped writing to their family because they can't see. You can help them get in touch with their loved ones again. And don't forget to bring along your Bible or a book like The Ministry of Healing, The Desire of Ages, Steps to Christ, and Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing. These are excellent books that bring them the love of Jesus with power.

Sabbath

A Second Love Gift to Jesus

4. Call or Write to Someone Who Needs Encouragement

Perhaps there is someone in your church who has drifted away from Jesus. Many people leave the church because they get discouraged. You and your family can contact such persons, visit them, invite them to your home. Pray for them and ask God to bring them back. You may also write letters to people who live far away but need encouragement.

While our family was visiting Brazil recently, we learned another way to make Sabbath the happiest day of the week. On our first Sabbath, we were visiting the Artur Alvim church in Sao Paulo. The ushers had just collected the Sabbath school offering when we heard the piano playing the well-known song,

*"Count your blessings;
Name them one by one;
Count your blessings
see what God hath done."*

Suddenly, we saw boys and girls, grandmas and grandpas, moms and dads, juniors and youth reverently walking down the aisle, holding something in their hand. Puzzled, we wondered, "Where are they going? What are they doing?" And then, our questions were answered as we saw them walk to the front of the church and put a second offering in the plate. With smiling faces, they returned to their seats because they were glad to give a second offering for Jesus. I am sure that some of those boys, girls and grown-ups had to deny themselves toys, food and even clothes so they could give more to their Lord.

Your Sabbath will also be very happy if you bring a love offering for Jesus. A love offering is one that you have earned yourself, not one that your parents have given you. When we earn our own money, and then deny ourselves to give it away, this is true sacrifice.

Choices:

If you were a famous king, how would you treat your mother if she came to your court for a visit?

A small word. Only five letters long. But what power it has. It can bring joy or sorrow! It can shorten your life or make it long and healthy! Most seriously, it can cause life or death! What is the word? Honor is its name, and it is recorded 146 times in the Bible.

The Bible teaches us that there are certain people we must honor. Top on God's honor list are our parents. In fact, the first word of the fifth commandment is honor. "Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Exodus 20:12.

1. Who, next to God, deserves our highest honor? Deuteronomy 5:16. Why?

"Parents are entitled to a degree of love and respect which is due to no other person. God Himself, who has placed upon them a responsibility for the souls committed to their charge, has ordained that during the earlier years of life, parents shall stand in the place of God to their children." —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 308.

2. Look up the word "honor" in the dictionary and write down the definition.

Lost in Darkness

Have you ever been lost in the dark, without a flashlight? Perhaps you were camping with your family, and while you were going to the rest room your battery went out. Getting lost is bad enough, but getting lost in the dark is not pleasant at all. There are many children and youth who are lost in our world. No, these are not children and youth whose pictures you see posted on post offices. These are not children who were kidnapped, but lost children and youth who are living at home with their parents. They are lost because they do not obey their parents, instead listen to their peers. The Bible tells us that the commandment taught by our parents are a lamp to our feet; their law is light to our path, and their reproofs are the ways of life. Proverbs 6:23.

The great thing is that when we obey our parents we don't need to be in darkness about anything. We don't have to worry, "Should I do this or should I do that?" "Should I be friends with that person or not?" "Should I listen to that music or that?" "Should I go to my friend's party or not?" We can always ask our parents, and they will tell us what is best for us.

King Solomon, the wisest man that ever lived, remembers his childhood and tells you from experience to honor your parents. "Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding." Solomon remembers how much his mother loved him and taught him to obey. His father David told him, "Let thine heart retain my words: keep my commandments and live." Proverbs 4:1, 4. So, if we obey our parents, we will live a long and happy life on this earth, and live forever in heaven. If we choose to disobey them, and listen instead to our friends, they will lead us in the wrong path which ends in trouble, sadness, sickness, and eternal death.

1. Why must children honor and obey their parents? Fill in the missing word(s).

- This is _____. Ephesians 6:1.
- This is _____ unto the Lord. Colossians 3:20.
- You will have an _____ of grace around your head and _____ around your neck. Proverbs 1:8, 9.
- When you go, it [parent's instruction] will _____ you; when you sleep, it will _____; when you awake, it will _____ to thee. Proverbs 6:20–22.
- Hear _____ and be _____. Proverbs 8:33.

2. What does Solomon say about how some children in our generation are treating their parents? Proverbs 30:11–14 (first part). Explain the verses in your own words.

Now that you know how important it is for you to honor your parents, you must be eager to learn new ways to honor them. So far, we have studied the first four commandments which taught us how to love and obey God. In the last six commandments we will learn how to treat other people. The most important of all people are our parents. Often we may be tempted to take them for granted, for we know them so well and spend so much time with them. This is why we may be in danger of dishonoring them. Let us find out what God means when He says, “Honour your father and your mother.”

1. What is one of the first things a child must learn? Ephesians 6:1; Proverbs 1:8.

“One of the first lessons a child needs to learn is the lesson of obedience. Before he is old enough to reason, he may be taught to obey.” —Education, p. 287.

“Prompt and continual obedience to wise parental rule will promote the happiness of the children themselves, as well as the honor of God and the good of society. Children should learn that in submission to the laws of the household is their perfect liberty. Christians will learn the same lesson—that in their obedience to God’s law is their perfect freedom.” —Child Guidance, p. 79.

2. Memorize the fifth commandment. Exodus 20:12. From the paragraph below, write down eight ways that God requires you to honor your parents.

_____	_____
_____	_____

“The fifth commandment requires children not only to yield respect, submission, and obedience to their parents, but also to give them love and tenderness, to lighten their cares, to guard their reputation, and to succor [help] and comfort them in old age.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 308.

Thought Question:

Can you say “Yes” to all the statements above because you truly honor and respect your parents?

Did you know that you are in debt? Some of you owe more than others, but each one of you is owing something very valuable. No, you don’t owe any money or payments on credit cards. But you do owe love, honor, respect and kindness to your parents. God says, “Children should feel that they are indebted to their parents.” The Adventist Home, p. 292. Do you know why?

You Are a Debtor

Because they have watched over you in infancy. They nursed you hundreds of hours in sickness. Just ask Mother and Father how many sleepless hours they have spent over you . . . how many tears they have shed for you . . . how many prayers they have sent to heaven in your behalf? And then perhaps you will understand a little more of how much you owe to your dear parents.

1. Do these math problems to find out roughly how much your parents have done out of love for you.

- _____ Meals Mother prepared in your lifetime
- _____ Loads of laundry Mother washed for you
- _____ Meals Dad bought for you
- _____ Number of shoes Dad bought in your lifetime
- _____ Number of pants or dresses
- _____ Number of nights Mom or Dad stayed up to nurse you in sickness
- _____ Total

“Children should feel that they are indebted to their parents, who have watched over them in infancy and nursed them in sickness. They should realize that their parents have suffered much anxiety on their account. Especially have conscientious, godly parents felt the deepest interest that their children should take a right course. As they have seen faults in their children, how heavy have been their hearts!” —The Adventist Home, p. 292.

2. What should you do if you have been ungrateful to your parents? Confess and change.

“If the children who caused those hearts to ache could see the effect of their course, they would certainly relent. If they could see their mother’s tears and hear her prayers to God in their behalf, if they could listen to her suppressed and broken sighs, their hearts would feel and they would speedily confess their wrongs and ask to be forgiven.” —The Adventist Home, p. 292.

Have you ever heard of children and youth who are Heart Healers, Health and Happiness Makers? If you haven’t, we’d like to introduce them to you. They are Bible boys and girls and young people who were respectful to their parents. God placed them in the Bible as your examples and teachers. These children are our heroes. They are the young people we want to copy. So study their lives diligently. Carefully notice each of their beautiful character qualities, and mark down the ones you especially want to copy.

1. How did a wise and famous king honor his mother? 1 Kings 2:19.

“Solomon, the wisest and most exalted monarch that ever sat upon an earthly throne, has given us an example of filial love and reverence. He was surrounded by his courtly train, consisting of the wisest sages and counselors, yet, when visited by his mother, he laid aside all the customary ceremonies attending the approach of a subject to an oriental monarch. The mighty king, in the presence of his mother, was only her son. His royalty was laid aside, as he rose from his throne and bowed before her. He then seated her on his throne, at his right hand.” —The SDA Bible Commentary [E.G. White Comments], vol. 2, p. 1025.

2. Tell how another important ruler honored his father. Genesis 46:29, 30.

“Another striking point in the character of Joseph, worthy of imitation by all youth, is his deep filial reverence. As he meets his father with tears streaming from his eyes, he hangs upon his neck in an affectionate, loving embrace. He seems to feel that he cannot do enough for his parent’s comfort and watches over his declining years with a love as tender as a mother’s. No pain is spared to show his respect and love upon all occasions. Joseph is an example of what a youth should be. Love manifested for your mother would disclose a beautiful trait of character such as God would approve.” —Testimonies, vol. 5, pp. 124, 125.

While the Bible is full of stories of young people who honored their parents, it also gives us sad histories of those who dishonored them. Children who disobey their parents and do not submit to them break their parents’ hearts, and ruin their health and happiness. Worst of all, they greatly hinder their parents’ influence. When people in the world or in church see disobedient children and youth, they think, “The parents of these children must not be good Christians. Look at how disrespectful and stubborn their children are.”

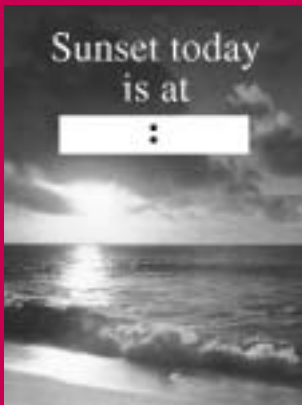

“Children who dishonor and disobey their parents, and disregard their advice and instructions, can have no part in the earth made new. The purified new earth will be no place for the rebellious, the disobedient, the ungrateful, son or daughter. Unless such learn obedience and submission here, they will never learn it; the peace of the ransomed will not be marred by disobedient, unruly, unsubmitive children. No commandment breaker can inherit the kingdom of heaven.” —Testimonies, vol. 1, pp. 497, 498.

“A young woman dwelling in the Philistine town of Timnath engaged Samson’s affections, and he determined to make her his wife. To his God-fearing parents, who endeavored to dissuade him from his purpose, his only answer was, ‘She pleaseth me well.’ The parents at last yielded to his wishes, and the marriage took place.” —Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 562.

“The tarry of Jacob and his sons at Shechem ended in violence and bloodshed. The one daughter of the household had been brought to shame and sorrow, two brothers were involved in the guilt of murder, a whole city had been given to ruin and slaughter, in retaliation for the lawless deed of one rash youth. The beginning that led to results so terrible was the act of Jacob’s daughter, who ‘went out to see the daughters of the land,’ thus venturing into association with the ungodly. He who seeks pleasure among those that fear not God is placing himself on Satan’s ground and inviting his temptations.” —Ibid., p. 204.

Challenge Question:

What was the name of a rebellious son who, in trying to take away his father’s kingdom, died in a most terrible way? _____

Honoring Father and Mother

John Davis was thirteen years old, and he liked a good time as well as any thirteen-year-old teenager that ever lived. He was a leader among his playmates because he usually could think of the best games and make better plans than anyone else. His eyes would dance and sparkle, and his laugh would ring out so clearly when he played, that all the boys liked him.

One winter afternoon, just as school closed, a crowd of boys waited on a corner not far from the schoolhouse. John had waited a moment after dismissal to ask the teacher to help him with a problem, and did not come out with the rest. As he saw the boys waiting, he wondered what they were talking about. They were standing close together and talking fast. Not waiting for one to finish before another began, they seemed to be all talking at once. As John came closer, they turned eagerly to him and he hurried a little, anxious to know what was so interesting.

“Say, John, want to have some fun?” asked one boy.

“Always ready for some fun. What’s up?” John pushed his cap back on his forehead and looked from one to the other.

“Jim has invited us to go out to his place for a time,” one said.

“Is that so? What’s on?” John asked, looking at Jim Crane.

Jim was older than the rest of the boys, and he lived in the country. His father was rich, and Jim always had money to spend for whatever he wanted.

"Skating's good on the pond back in our pasture, and the north hill is good coasting. Take your choice," Jim answered with a great deal of pride in his voice. He enjoyed having the boys look up to him, and felt that he was very much more fortunate than his playmates.

"You don't mean to go right away?" John asked.

"Why not? The sooner we get there the more time we'll have to play," said the boys.

John stepped back and shook his head. "I can't go unless I go home first," he answered firmly.

Jim laughed, and the other boys followed his example.

"You're a coward, John. Anyway, you know your folks won't care if you get home in good time. We could play till dark, and Jim could bring us home," one boy suggested.

"Oh, do come with us, John! We always have more fun when you're along," another boy said.

John liked to skate on the lake, and he really wanted to go. It was hard to be called a coward and to miss the fun also. He stood still for a moment, looking away down the street. He knew that his parents trusted him. They expected him to come home and ask permission before he went to a friend's house. If it had been near his own home, it might be different.

"No, I couldn't do it, boys. It isn't because I wouldn't enjoy going. I haven't been to the lake to skate this winter," he added sorrowfully.

"Your father and mother must be awful hard on you. If they cared anything about you, they'd want to let you have some fun," Jim said.

John's face flushed, and his eyes flashed. "No, they are not hard on me. They like to let me have a good time, but they wouldn't want me to go without asking. They wouldn't know where I was if they should need me for something," he defended.

"What would they do if you went just this once?" one boy asked curiously.

"Do? Why, they wouldn't do anything, I guess; but they are depending upon me to do what they want me to do, and it wouldn't be right to disappoint them."

"I know what John means. There's a Bible study verse that we had not long ago: 'Honor thy father and thy mother.' He's right, too. I'm going home."

The crowd broke up, and no one went out to skate at Jim's that evening. John hurried home; and there was a happy feeling in his heart, for he knew that he had done right and by his example helped to encourage the other boys to do right, too.

As he opened the front door, he heard his mother say: "Here he is now. We are going to Uncle Dave's farm this evening, John, and we'll stay over through tomorrow. Your father was given an unexpected holiday. We are going right away, so you can be on time to go with Uncle Dave's boys to skate on the lake. Get your overcoat, dear, and do hurry."

As they ran to catch the train two blocks away from home, John was very glad that he had honored his parents, and had done as he knew they wanted him to do. ▲

Key Words:
Reputation, Submission, Dictates.

Choices:

If you were in a lot of pain, hurting all over your body, would you remember to think of your mother?

Do you know how to make your mother and father happy and healthy? No, you don't need to do impossible things for them. Neither do you have to buy them expensive gifts. When they ask you to do something, do it quickly. Speak kindly and respectfully to them as you would to a judge or some VIP (very important person). For truly, next to God, your mom and dad are the most important people on earth. Treat them with kindness and courtesy. When you wake up in the morning, give them a hug and kiss. Tell them you love and appreciate them. Be alert and notice what worries them and try to encourage them. When you have finished school and your daily chores, do at least one extra thing to lighten their burdens.

- 1. How can you honor your parents, glorify God, and be a blessing to others? Underline five ways.

"In childhood and youth you may have an experience in the service of God. Do the things that you know to be right. Be obedient to your parents. Listen to their counsels; for if they love and fear God, upon them will be laid the responsibility of educating, disciplining, and training your soul for the immortal life.

Thankfully receive the help they want to give you, and make their hearts glad by cheerfully submitting yourselves to the dictates of their wiser judgments. In this way you will honor your parents, glorify God, and become a blessing to those with whom you associate.” —The Adventist Home, pp. 298, 299.

2. Diane is a teenager. She feels she is too old to hug and kiss her parents and to tell them, “I love you.” What would Jesus tell her? Romans 12:10; 1 John 3:18.

“I have seen children who seemed to have no affection to give to their parents, no expressions of love and endearment, which are due them and which they would appreciate; but they lavish an abundance of affection and caresses to select ones for whom they show preference. Is this as God would have it? No, no. Bring all the rays of sunshine, of love, and of affection into the home circle. Your father and mother will appreciate these little attentions you can give. Your efforts to lighten the burdens, and to repress every word of fretfulness and ingratitude, show that you are not a thoughtless child, and that you do appreciate the care and love that has been bestowed upon you in the years of your helpless infancy and childhood.

“Children, it is necessary that your mothers love you, or else you would be very unhappy. And is it not also right that children love their parents, and show this love by pleasant looks, pleasant words, and cheerful, hearty cooperation, helping the father out-of-doors and the mother indoors?” —The Adventist Home, p. 295.

3. How long should children honor their parents? Proverbs 23:22.

“The fifth commandment is binding upon children as long as their own lives and the lives of their parents are spared.” —Sons and Daughters of God, p. 60.

“Our obligation to our parents never ceases. Our love for them, and theirs for us, is not measured by years or distance, and our responsibility can never be set aside.” —My Life Today, p. 278.

Missionaries! We often think of missionaries as those who travel to some remote foreign land. But, did you know that you might have some missionaries in your own home? Children and youth who cheerfully wash dishes, vacuum and sweep floors, mow lawns, clean garages, cook lunches and take out the garbage are missionaries. In fact, a true missionary does any job that needs to be done to relieve his or her overburdened mother and father. Listen to what God says through His servant, “You do not think that washing dishes is pleasant work, yet you would not like to be denied the privilege of eating food that has been placed on those dishes. Do you think that it is more pleasant work for your mother to do those things than it is for you? Are you willing to leave what you consider a disagreeable task for your careworn mother to do, while you play the lady [or the gentleman]? There is sweeping to be done, there are rugs to take up and shake, and the rooms are to be put in order; and while you are neglecting to do these things, is it consistent for you to desire larger responsibilities? Have you considered how many times mother has to attend to all these household duties while you are excused to attend school or to amuse yourself?" —The Adventist Home, p. 300.

Now that you've learned how easy it is to be a missionary at home, we are sure you will begin helping your parents right away. But remember, as you are working God is watching your face. If you work cheerfully, you are then as much of a missionary as were the apostles Paul and Peter. However, if you complain about how much you have to do and work unhappily, all your work is in vain.

1. When we do our work unwillingly with much complaining, whose spirit do we have? John 8:44 (first part). How did Jesus overcome that problem? John 8:29.

"Many children go about their home duties as though they were disagreeable tasks, and their faces plainly show the disagreeable. They find fault and murmur, and nothing is done willingly. This is not Christlike; it is the spirit of Satan, and if you cherish it, you will be like him. You will be miserable yourselves and will make all about you miserable. Do not complain of how much you have to do and how little time you have for amusement, but be thoughtful and caretaking. By employing your time in some useful work, you will be closing a door against Satan's temptations. Remember that Jesus lived not to please Himself, and you must be like Him. Make this matter one of religious principle, and ask Jesus to help you. By exercising your mind in this direction, you will be preparing to become burden bearers in the cause of God as you have been caretakers in the home circle. You will have a good influence upon others and may win them to the service of Christ." —The Adventist Home, pp. 300, 301.

2. What is your first duty to your mother? How does Jesus look at the help you give her? Matthew 25:40.

"It is difficult for a loving mother to urge her children to help her when she sees they have no heart in the work and will frame any and every excuse to get rid of doing a disagreeable task. Children and youth, Christ is looking upon you, and shall He see you neglecting the trust He has put into your hands? If you want to be useful, the opportunity is yours. Your first duty is to help your mother who has done so much for you. Lift her burdens, give her pleasant days of rest; for she has had few holidays and very little variety in her life. You have claimed all the pleasure and amusement as your right, but the time has come for you to shed sunshine in the home. Take up your duty; go right to work. Through your self-denying devotion give her rest and pleasure." —The Adventist Home, p. 301.

"If you are truly converted, if you are children of Jesus, you will honor your parents; you will not only do what they tell you but will watch for opportunities to help them. In doing this you are working for Jesus. He considers all these caretaking, thoughtful deeds as done to Himself. This is the most important kind of missionary work; and those who are faithful in these little everyday duties are gaining a valuable experience.” —Ibid., pp. 295, 296.

Thought Question

What is some unpleasant work you don’t like doing? Why does God want you to do it cheerfully?

Have you ever seen a guard on duty? Have you ever seen perhaps “bodyguards” protecting the prime minister or president of your country? These men are always next to their leader, making sure that no dangerous stranger comes near him. With “eagle eyes” they are watching for hidden weapons that may be used to hurt him.

You also have the job of a guard, not of the president but of your parents. Your parents don’t need a bodyguard, but a “reputation guard.” Reputation has to do with your parent’s good name and character. When you are obeying God and honoring your parents, you are guarding their reputation.

We’ve noticed that sometimes when juniors and youth get together, some of them may complain to each other about their parents. Never let that happen to you. Guard your parents’ reputation. If you hear anyone talking bad against your parents, defend them. That is your job. If you do these things, you will be honoring your parents and they will be the happiest, healthiest parents in the world. Do you know why? The Bible says, “A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit dries up the bones.” Parents who have disobedient children are sad and sadness brings sickness and bone disease. Happiness, on the other hand, brings health and a long life.

1. How can you guard your parents’ reputation and bring them happiness? Read Proverbs 10:1; 23:24, 25; 1:10, then answer true or false.

- I can make my parents happy by being wise, and by watching the way I act at all times and places. True or False
- I can make my parents happy by doing what pleases me. True or False
- I can guard my parents’ reputation by obeying God and living up to our family name and character. True or False
- I can guard my parents’ reputation by telling my friends what I don’t like about them. True or False

2. What brings shame and sadness to your father and mother?

- _____ Proverbs 28:7.
- _____ Proverbs 19:26.
- _____ Proverbs 13:1.

An Obedient Son

3. Give your mother and father a paper and ask them to write down 10 things you can do to guard their reputation and make them happy.

He was the King of the universe, the Commander of heaven. Angels found delight in obeying His will, but when He lived on this earth, He obeyed His earthly mother and father. Jesus was a loving, obedient son. Gladly He helped Joseph in the carpenter shop. Cheerfully, He looked for ways to lighten Mary's burdens and to obey her in all things.

Jesus lived in Nazareth, a town known for its wickedness. How often was the teenager Jesus teased by the disrespectful neighborhood children! How many times He was mocked by His stepbrothers and encouraged to disobey His parents. But never once did Jesus give in to them. He is our example. We may obey our parents as Jesus did, even though all around us children are being disrespectful. When you are tempted to dishonor your parents, remember the boy Jesus. He is in heaven right now pleading for you. He understands the temptations you face, for He had the same ones. Ask Him to give you the victory and to truly honor your father and mother. He has never said No to a pleading junior or youth.

1. How did Jesus honor His parents? Luke 2:51.

“[Jesus] lived in a peasant's home and faithfully and cheerfully acted His part in bearing the household burdens. He who had been the commander of heaven was a willing servant, a loving, obedient son. He learned a trade, and with His own hands worked in the carpenter's shop with Joseph.” —Child Guidance, pp. 19, 20.

2. What was the last loving, respectful act Jesus did for His mother? John 19:25–27.

“The perfect example of Christ's filial love shines forth with undimmed luster from the mist of ages. For nearly thirty years Jesus by His daily toil had helped bear the burdens of the home. And now, even in His last agony, He remembers to provide for His sorrowing, widowed mother. The same spirit will be seen in every disciple of our Lord. Those who follow Christ will feel that it is a part of their religion to respect and provide for their parents. From the heart where His love is cherished, father and mother will never fail of receiving thoughtful care and tender sympathy.” —The Desire of Ages, p. 752.

How tall are you? Four and a half feet? Five feet or taller? Some of you may be very eager to grow tall quickly. You may even be checking your height every few months. But God is not so much concerned about your body height. He is more interested in your character height. Measure your height and write it down. Now think for a moment, “Is my character as tall as my body or am I only one foot tall in good character? If your character is short, here is how you can help it to grow quickly. With God's help, do your

“If you have sinned in not rendering love and obedience to [your parents], begin now to redeem the past. You cannot afford to take any other course; for it means to you the loss of eternal life. The Heart-searcher knows what is your attitude toward your parents; for He is weighing moral character in the golden scales of the heavenly sanctuary. O, confess your neglect of your parents, confess your indifference toward them, and your contempt of God's holy commandment. . . .

“The hearts of your parents have been drawn out in tender sympathy toward you, and can you return their love with cold ingratitude? They love your souls, they want you to be saved; but have you not often despised their counsel and done your own will, your own way? Have you not followed your own independent judgment, when you knew that such a stubborn course would not meet the approval of God? Many fathers and mothers have gone down broken-hearted to the grave because of the ingratitude, the lack of respect, shown them by their children.” —Messages to Young People, p. 332.

2. How does Jesus encourage you to obey? Proverbs 23:26.

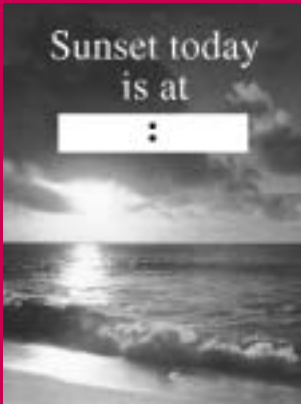

“Then, children, come to Jesus. Give to God the most precious offering that it is possible for you to make; give Him your heart. He speaks to you saying, “My son, my daughter, give me thine heart. Though your sins be as scarlet, I will make them white as snow; for I will cleanse you with my own blood. I will make you members of my family—children of the heavenly King. Take my forgiveness, my peace which I freely give you. I will clothe you with my own righteousness—the wedding garment—and make you fit for the marriage supper of the Lamb. When clothed in my righteousness, through prayer, through watchfulness, through diligent study of My Word, you will be able to reach a high standard. You will understand the truth, and your character will be molded by a divine influence; for this is the will of God, even your sanctification” —The SDA Bible Commentary [E. G. White Comments], vol. 3, p. 1162.

Perhaps you feel, “Oh no! I am already thirteen years old and I have not honored my parents the way I should. It’s too late now. Don’t despair, redeem the time today. That means, confess your sins to God and to your parents, and start obeying cheerfully today. Study on to see what else you can do to redeem the time.

- I must have a personal experience with Jesus. True or False

“Watch and pray, and obtain a personal experience in the things of God. Your parents may teach you, they may try to guide your feet into safe paths; but it is impossible for them to change your heart. You must give your heart to Jesus and walk in the precious light of truth that He has given you. Faithfully take up your duties in the home life, and, through the grace of God, you may grow up unto the full stature of what Christ would have a child grow to be in Him. The fact that your parents keep the Sabbath, and obey the truth, will not insure your salvation. For though Noah and Job and Daniel were in the land, ‘As I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter; they shall but deliver their own souls by their righteousness.’ ” —The Adventist Home, p. 298.

2. If you have sinned and not honored your parents, what should you do now? Colossians 4:5, 6.

“The youth are now deciding their own eternal destiny, and I would appeal to you to consider the commandment to which God has annexed such a promise, ‘That thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.’ Children, do you desire eternal life? Then respect and honor your parents. Do not wound and grieve their hearts and cause them to spend sleepless nights in anxiety and distress over your case. If you have sinned in not rendering love and obedience to them, begin now to redeem the past. You cannot afford to take any other course; for it means to you the loss of eternal life.” —The Adventist Home, p. 302.

Key Words:
Grievances, Manufactured, Sarcasm, Derogatory.

Choices:

What would you do if all the juniors and youth in your classroom were making fun of the teacher's new hairdo?

Think of the best and most powerful sermon you have ever heard. A sermon that you didn't forget. God wants to show you and your family how to preach a sermon like that. His Word says, "One well-ordered, well-disciplined family tells more in behalf of Christianity than all the sermons that can be preached." —The Adventist Home, p. 32.

Our heavenly Father gave us the fifth commandment that we might have happy homes—homes where parents and children are courteous, respectful, kind, and loving to each other. When our non-Christian relatives, friends and neighbors see that we have such a home, they will believe that we are followers of Jesus. Do you know what God calls such homes where there is unity, peace and happiness? Paradise, or a little heaven on earth. Holy angels will love to visit such homes, but they will flee from a house where there are unpleasant words, fighting, and strife. Unkindness, complaining, and anger shut away Jesus from our homes.

- 1. What is the best test to see whether a home is Christian or not? What power does one well-ordered, well-disciplined family have in the world?

“The best test of the Christianity of a home is the type of character begotten by its influence. Actions speak louder than the most positive profession of godliness.” —The Adventist Home, p. 32.

“The greatest evidence of the power of Christianity that can be presented to the world is a well-ordered, well-disciplined family. This will recommend the truth as nothing else can, for it is a living witness of its practical power upon the heart.” —Ibid.

2. How much does God value a well-ordered and well-disciplined family? Job 28:16.

“A well-ordered, a well-disciplined family in the sight of God is more precious than fine gold, even than the golden wedge of Ophir.” —The Adventist Home, p. 32.

Your family and mine are on trial. We are being watched by relatives, friends, neighbors, as well as by our enemies. They are all looking to see if we are any different because we call ourselves Christians, and especially Seventh-day Adventists.

God and the holy angels are also watching us. Heavenly beings from unfallen worlds are also looking at how we behave. They all want to know if we are acting like followers of the meek and lowly Jesus. Satan and his evil angels are also watching, and looking for ways to tempt us to dishonor our parents and to bring division into the family.

1. Who is watching our family life, and reading our characters as the morning newspaper? 2 Corinthians 3:2, 3.

“It is no small matter for a family to stand as representatives of Jesus, keeping God’s law in an unbelieving community. We are required to be living epistles known and read of all men. This position involves fearful responsibilities.” —The Adventist Home, pp. 31, 32.

“A well-ordered Christian household is a powerful argument in favor of the reality of the Christian religion—an argument that the infidel cannot gainsay. All can see that there is an influence at work in the family that affects the children, and that the God of Abraham is with them.” —Ibid., p. 36.

2. How can we destroy our good influence with the neighbors? Proverbs 11:13.

“Some who profess to be Christians talk with their neighbors concerning their home difficulties. They relate their grievances in such a way as to call forth sympathy for themselves; but it is a great mistake to pour our trouble into the ears of others, especially when many of our grievances are manufactured and exist because of our irreligious life and defective character. Those who go forth to lay their private grievances before others might better remain at home to pray, to surrender their perverse will to God, to fall on the Rock and be broken, to die to self that Jesus may make them vessels unto honor.” —Ibid., p. 38.

The fifth commandment teaches us not only to honor our parents but also many other important people. Let’s find out who they all are.

“God has especially enjoined tender respect toward the aged. He says, ‘The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness.’ Proverbs 16:31. It tells of battles fought, and victories gained; of burdens borne, and temptations resisted. It tells of weary feet nearing their rest, of places soon to be vacant. Help the children to think of this, and they will smooth the path of the aged by their courtesy and respect, and will bring grace and beauty into their young lives as they heed the command to ‘rise up before the hoary head, and honor the face of the old man.’ Leviticus 19:32.” —

Education, p. 244.

One day, 42 rowdy children decided to have some fun. They had heard much about the man whose best friend was taken in a chariot of fire to heaven. As Elisha was walking to Bethel, the children and youth met him on the way, and started mocking, “Go up, thou bald head; go up, thou bald head.” These unruly youth were not only mocking the prophet of God, but also the solemn event of Elijah’s ascension. “At the sound of their mocking words the prophet turned back, and under the inspiration of the Almighty he pronounced a curse upon them. The awful judgment that followed was of God. ‘There came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and tare forty and two’ of them.” — Prophets and Kings, pp. 235, 236.

1. Why did Elisha call for such a severe punishment to be sent upon the disrespectful children?

“Had Elisha allowed the mockery to pass unnoticed, he would have continued to be ridiculed and reviled by the rabble, and his mission to instruct and save in a time of grave national peril might have been defeated. This one instance of terrible severity was sufficient to command respect throughout his life. For fifty years he went in and out of the gate of Bethel, and to and fro in the land, from city to city, passing through crowds of idle, rude, dissolute youth; but none mocked him or made light of his qualifications as the prophet of the Most High.” —Ibid.

2. What does this story teach us how we should treat ministers, teachers and missionaries?

“Reverence should be shown for God’s representatives—for ministers, teachers, and parents, who are called to speak and act in His stead. In the respect shown them, God is honored.” —Prophets and Kings, p. 237.

Doing your best at school brings you the reward of good grades. Practicing piano, violin or trumpet daily, you get the reward of being able to play beautiful music. So, obeying your parents brings many rewards also. Our heavenly Father loves to give rewards to the obedient children and youth. His rewards are called blessings and they are more valuable than gold, money, or any earthly gift. Although we are sharing with you only fourteen rewards for obeying your parents in the question below, you will soon find out that God is more generous than that. Remember the song, “There shall be showers of blessings, this is the promise of God”? When we do what God says, He multiplies the blessings He sends our way. So the fourteen blessings will be multiplied into hundreds. Perhaps thousands!

Obedience pays well. Obedient children and youth will some day be very successful adults. Disobedient and rebellious children and youth will have a more difficult time in life. Do you know why? Those who have learned obedience in their youth will naturally obey their boss quickly, and finish their job without complaining. They will get along with others and be willing to give up their will and way to make others happy. So, what are you waiting for? Get busy and go to obedience school in your home.

As we willingly obey our parents, we will be rewarded with a chain of honor around our neck and head which is of more value than the golden chains and pearls people wear on their necks.

2. What punishments will God give to those who choose to dishonor their parents?

Proverbs 20:20

Proverbs 30:17

This verse is also referring to rebellious youth who dishonored their parents and later were judged as criminals. They were hanged on gallows, and ravens came to pick out their eyes.

So while God promises a long life to those who honor their parents, violent death, with no burial is here threatened for those who break the fifth commandment.

What if you have no parents and are adopted by an aunt, uncle or even some strangers? How does God expect you to treat them? We have in the Bible several examples of children who were raised by someone other than their parents. Notice how they treated the people who were their guardians.

higher trust than that committed to fathers and mothers in the care and training of their children.” —Prophets and Kings, p. 245.

“The parents of that Hebrew maid, as they taught her of God, did not know the destiny that would be hers. But they were faithful to their trust; and in the home of the captain of the Syrian host, their child bore witness to the God whom she had learned to honor.” —Ibid., p. 246.

Thought Question:

How would you have acted if you were in Esther’s or in the little maid’s place?

3. How did Jesus treat the Jewish priests and doctors of the law (even though He knew much more about the Bible than they did)? Luke 2:46, 47.

“The doctors turned upon Him with questions, and they were amazed at His answers. With the humility of a child He repeated the words of Scripture, giving them a depth of meaning that the wise men had not conceived of. . . .

“If Jesus had appeared to be trying to teach them, they would have disdained to listen. But they flattered themselves that they were teaching Him, or at least testing His knowledge of the Scriptures. The youthful modesty and grace of Jesus disarmed their prejudices. Unconsciously their minds were opened to the word of God, and the Holy Spirit spoke to their hearts.” —The Desire of Ages, pp. 78–80.

Honor Your Elders

Recipe

Baklava

3 cups walnuts (about 3/4 pound), shelled
 1 teaspoon cardamon
 2 packages (8 oz. each) phyllo or strudel leaves or double recipe strudel dough oil (enough to spread on dough with brush)
 1 tablespoon water
 Honey Syrup (recipe follows)

1. Toast walnuts in oven at 350 for 10 minutes. Blend walnuts, while still warm, a cup at a time, in blender until finely ground. Mix in cardamon. Set mixture aside.
2. Brush bottom of a 13x9x2-inch baking pan with oil. Fold 2 phyllo leaves in half; place on bottom of pan. Brush with oil. Repeat. (Keep the rest of the phyllo covered with a damp cloth so it doesn't dry out.)
3. Sprinkle top with nut mixture. Add two more folded leaves; brush with oil.
4. Repeat step 3 five more times. Stack remaining pastry leaves, brushing every other one. Brush top leaf with remaining oil; sprinkle with the water.
5. With a sharp knife, mark off the Baklava. Cut through the top layer only, making 5 lengthwise cuts, 1 inches apart (you will have 6 equal strips). Then cut diagonally at 1 inch intervals, making diamonds (9 strips).
6. Bake slowly at 325 for 50 minutes or until top is golden. Remove pan to wire rack. Cut all the way through the diamonds, separating slightly. Pour cooled honey syrup over. Cool thoroughly in pan on rack. Cover with foil; let stand overnight for syrup to be absorbed. No refrigeration necessary.

Honey Syrup

1 small lemon
 2 cups honey (or 1 cup honey and 1 cup maple syrup)
 1 cup water
 Remove rind (thin yellow, no white) from lemon; squeeze out
 1 teaspoon lemon juice into cup, reserve.

Place lemon rind water and honey into a saucepan. Bring to boiling; lower heat, continue to cook for 5 minutes, without stirring. Strain the mixture into a jar, and stir in reserved lemon juice.

Let's have some fun!

Jesus said the kingdom of God is like a mustard seed—it starts small but grows very big in time. Have you ever wondered just how small a mustard seed really is? The following activity will show you. And you'll have a lot of fun, too!

Make a seed picture. To do this you will need several different kinds of seeds—such as rice, beans, barley, split peas, pumpkin, and mustard seeds. Then follow these steps:

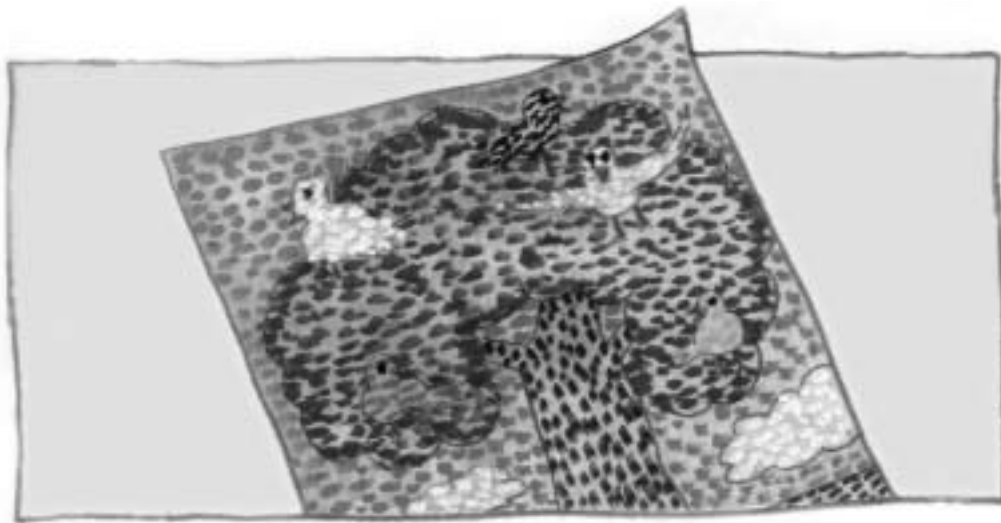

Draw a simple design on a piece of tag board, or sturdy cardboard. The size of the board can vary, but don't make it too large— 12 in. x 12 in. square is fine.

Plan where each kind of seed will go.

Working with one kind of seed at a time, brush a thick coat of white glue where that type of seed will go, and put the seeds in place.

After all areas of your picture are filled in with seeds, let the picture dry.

When the picture is dry, compare the mustard seed to the other seeds you used. It's far smaller than the others, but it will grow into a bigger plant than any of them! So don't think anything you can do for God's kingdom is too small!

Answer to Challenge Question on p. 27

God shows His justice to the 3rd generation, but His mercy to 1000's of generations, which is forever. $1000:3 = 333.3 = \text{forever}$. God is 333.3 times more merciful than He is just.

▼ Letter to Parents

Dear Parents:

Our work is about to be tested. We have taught our children to memorize the commandments from their childhood. We have taken them faithfully to Sabbath school each week. Yes, we have studied their Sabbath school lessons with them every day, but is all that enough? Soon our work will be tested. Have we penetrated to the depth of their hearts with our teaching or have we been only teaching their minds? Are our children ready to stand for the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus as the final test comes upon us? Will they be true to the God of their childhood when they are separated from us?

The lessons for the next two quarters are on the ten commandments. Today, like never before we and our children must know by experience what it means to keep the commandments of God and have the faith of Jesus. It is not enough for us to have an intellectual knowledge of God's law. We must have it written in our hearts.

God instructs us to take up this task with all our might. "Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes." God commanded us to teach our children His law continually, "And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. And thou shalt write them upon the door posts of thine house, and upon thy gates: that your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give them, as the days of heaven upon the earth." Deuteronomy 11:18-21.

How can we teach our children continually? After all, we have work to do. The fathers are working away from home, even some mothers are working outside the home. Mothers are struggling at home with household duties, home schooling, church activities and the cares of this life. With the limited time we have, how can we implement the command of Deuteronomy 11? Here are some practical ideas.

- 1) We can help our children to have their own daily personal devotions.
- 2) We must have regular morning and evening worship with our children.
- 3) We can study the Sabbath school lesson with them daily.
- 4) We can call them to prayer throughout the day for special needs, situations and people.
- 5) We can share with them what God has taught us during our personal devotions.
- 6) We can share with them our answers to prayer and God's miracle-working power in our lives.
- 7) We must go to Sabbath School and church and be on time every Sabbath.
- 8) We can take a break in the middle of the week, and instill in them the need to go to prayer meeting.
- 9) We can share Jesus Christ at our dinner tables with our children, friends, neighbors and anyone who knocks on our door.
- 10) Most important of all, we must live what we preach. We must exemplify the loving character of our Saviour to our children. How else can we show them that religion works. How else can we impress them that God is real? How else can we prepare them for the final test?

Is that a hard enough list? Yes it is, but as we intertwine Christ into all the aspects of our life, we will by God's grace, help ourselves and our children prepare for the final test.

May the study of this quarterly make us grounded and rooted in God's law of love. Let us allow Christ to write His law in our hearts.

"A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh. And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them." Ezekiel 36:26, 27.

The Rose

*It is only a tiny rosebud—
A flower of God's design,
But I cannot unfold the petals
With these clumsy hands of mine.*

*The secret of unfolding flowers
Is not known to such as I—
The flower God opens so sweetly
In my hands would fade and die.*

*If I cannot unfold a rosebud,
This flower of God's design,
Then how can I think I have wisdom
To unfold this growing life of mine?*

*So I'll trust him for his leading
Each moment of every day,
And I'll look to him for guidance
Each step of the pilgrim way.*

*For the pathway that lies before me
My Heavenly Father knows—
I'll trust him to reveal the moments
Just as he unfolds the growing rose.*
